The Lincoln Danville Knew

Danville & Vermilion County

Taking a stroll down Vermilion St in Danville (1850), you may well have run into a tall, gangly, somewhat unkempt young man, wearing a stovetop hat, rushing from his office to the nearby courthouse. Danville knew that young man well, as Abe Lincoln practiced law here from 1841-1859 as he traveled the now famous 8th Judicial Circuit in Illinois.

"If I find I have blessings at my disposal, Old Vermilion will come in for a bountiful share."

Abraham Lincoln
Noon February 11, 1861
On his way to Washington

Today, Danville is proud to be part of the Looking for Lincoln National Heritage Area, home to the Vermilion County Museum, replicating that early courthouse, and adjacent to the Fithian Home. (Lincoln site on the National Register of Historic Places).

Alton

Begin your Lincoln adventure at the famous Lincoln-Douglas Square, site of the last “great debate” with the issue of slavery on the minds of everyone. Walk in the footsteps of Abraham and Mary Lincoln as they visited the area, or the Civil War soldiers – Confederate captives and their Union guards – many of whom are buried here. And, take in the landscape of the small Midwestern town where U.S. Senator and Alton resident, Lyman Trumbull, would author the 13th amendment, abolishing slavery in the United States.

Beardstown

This charming little river town is one of the oldest in Illinois, nestled on the shores of the Illinois River. Here Abraham Lincoln the lawyer argued many court cases at the Beardstown Courthouse, including the famous “Almanac Trial” – where Lincoln used the Farmer’s Almanac to prove his theory in a murder trial. During the Black Hawk War, Lincoln came to Beardstown to be installed as a Captain of the Sangamon County Company.

Charleston

Thomas and Sara Bush Lincoln, Abraham Lincoln's father and stepmother, were among the early settlers in the Charleston area. Today, you can experience what life was like for the Lincolns on a visit to the nearby Lincoln Log Cabin State Historic Site in Lerna. Later in his career, Abraham often visited the area, both for business and pleasure. He tried many cases here and in 1858, Charleston was the scene of the fourth Lincoln-Douglas Debate – witnessed by a crowd of over 12,000 people.

Clinton

Lincoln played an important role in the early development of Clinton, beginning in 1839 as a young lawyer with the 8th Judicial Circuit until he became the 16th President of the United States. Be sure to plan a visit to the mid-Victorian mansion that was home to Lincoln's Clinton law partner, the Honorable C.H. Moore. Afterwards stop by the Warner Library, where you'll find some of the oldest books and manuscripts in the county and features an exhibit that tells the story of Lincoln's influence in DeWitt County.

Decatur

Decatur and Macon County have a landscape rich in Lincoln history. Many “firsts” in Lincoln’s life happened in and around Decatur. It was the first home of the Lincoln family when they moved to Illinois. Downtown Decatur was the site of Lincoln’s very first political speech, and it was here that he was first nominated for the Presidency at the State Republican Party Convention. Today, the log courthouse where those cases were heard still exists in the Prairie Village at the Macon County Historical Society Museum.

Pleasant Plains

Just down the road from Pleasant Plains, you'll find Historic Clayville. Established by the Broadwell family in 1824, the Broadwell Inn at Clayville would serve as a stagecoach stop and public house until 1847. During that time, stagecoach passengers, freight caravans, cattle drovers and lawyers like Lincoln riding the judicial circuit would stop to rest and prepare for the next leg of their journey. Today, the Broadwell Inn has been restored to capture the spirit of the 19th century stagecoach stop. The site features some wonderful living history festivals throughout the year.

Major Historic Attractions

Countless Lincoln stories have been gathered throughout the 43 counties of the Abraham Lincoln National Heritage Area – stories told through authentic historic attractions, wayside exhibits, special events, and living history programs. Here are just a few of the major historic attractions you'll find as you "Look for Lincoln" in the Abraham Lincoln National Heritage Area.

Abraham Lincoln Presidential Library and Museum (Springfield)

Get ready to be entertained, educated, and yes, mesmerized! From the humble beginnings of a young pioneer to his rise to the presidency, the story of Lincoln's life and times is captured through original artifacts, a partial reproduction of the 1860s White House, special effects theaters with ghostly images and high action and so much more. Visit here, step outside and look for Lincoln in the authentic attractions, living history events, and a Lincoln Story Trail scattered throughout the Abraham Lincoln National Heritage Area.

Lincoln Home National Historic Site (Springfield)

Step into the world of the Lincoln family when you enter the only home he ever owned. Stroll through the lovely neighborhood surrounding the home for a rare glimpse into the daily lives of Lincoln – as a husband and father, a neighbor and friend, a lawyer and a politician.

Lincoln Heritage Museum (Lincoln)

Discover over 100 rare artifacts from our President Abraham Lincoln's life and the Civil War on the first floor. On the second floor, walk with Lincoln through a unique interactive visitor experience. Come see, hear and touch history at the Lincoln History Museum at Lincoln College, ranked one of the "Most Amazing University Museums in the World" by bestcollegesonline.com in 2013.

New Salem State Historic Site (Petersburg)

Explore the reconstructed pioneer village where Abraham Lincoln lived and worked as a young man over 150 years ago. Immerse yourself in the daily lives of the villagers as interpreters and actors in period dress bring history to life to tell the story of the life of Abraham Lincoln – store clerk, postmaster, citizen soldier and more.

Old State Capitol State Historic Site (Springfield)

Stand in the very room where Lincoln made his famous "House Divided" speech, or where he argued cases before the Illinois Supreme Court, spent hours discussing the issues of the day with his colleagues in the law library, served central Illinois as a member of the Illinois legislature, and finally, lay in state before his burial in Oak Ridge Cemetery.

Lincoln Tomb State Historic Site (Springfield)

Feel the majesty as you gaze upon the stunning granite monument that serves as the final resting place for our 16th president, his wife, and three of their four children. Surpassed only by Arlington National Cemetery in our nation's capital, Oak Ridge is the second most visited cemetery in the United States – welcoming visitors from around the globe.

Major Historic Attractions

David Davis Mansion State Historic Site (Bloomington)

Gaze through a window into the social and political life Lincoln knew when you visit this stately 19th century mansion once owned by Lincoln confidant and friend, Judge David Davis and his wife, Sarah. History attributes part of Lincoln's success in obtaining the Republican nomination for the presidency to the influence and support of Judge Davis.

Lincoln Log Cabin State Historic Site (Lerna)

Gain an understanding of rural life in 1840s Illinois as you explore this humble prairie farmstead – the last home to Thomas and Sarah Bush Lincoln, father and stepmother of the man who would become President. Today, you'll find a working, living history farm developed around the two-room cabin belonging to the Lincolns, as well as the Stephen Sargent Farm nearby.

Historic Nauvoo (Nauvoo)

Experience the lives of the early members of the Mormon church who settled along the banks of the Mississippi River in 1839 as the people of Old Nauvoo set the stage for one aspect of prairie life from 1839-1846. Over 30 historic attractions are brought to life through year round living history interpreters and performers who tell the story of these early Illinoisans.

Museum of the Grand Prairie (Mahomet)

Explore an extensive collection interpreting 19th and early 20th century life in east-central Illinois. Enjoy two floors of unique exhibits presenting the architecture, trades and occupations, decorative arts, and childhood and domestic life of the time. In the "Champaign County's Lincoln" exhibit, you can travel in a buggy with Lincoln, see a daguerreotype camera up-close and hear Lincoln's friends and neighbors talk about the early history of the community.

McLean County Museum of History (Bloomington)

Hear stories of the people and landscape of McLean County through the years – including those who would have been Lincoln's contemporaries inside the beautiful old courthouse. Discover the "Abraham Lincoln in McLean County" exhibit examining Lincoln's work as an attorney in McLean County and on the Illinois Eighth Judicial Circuit. It defines Lincoln's pivotal role in the anti-slavery movement and explores his last connections with the people of McLean County.

Mt. Pulaski Courthouse State Historic Site (Mt. Pulaski)

Stop in and visit one of only two remaining 8th Judicial Circuit Courthouses standing on their original site – and a frequent stop along the circuit traveled by Lincoln, the prairie lawyer. The Courthouse is restored, furnished and interpreted as an 1850s courthouse. Many of the court's records were destroyed in a fire years ago, but records still remain for two important patent cases tried by Lincoln in this building.

Postville Courthouse State Historic Site (Lincoln)

Imagine yourself arguing a point of law in this rugged, brown frame building – a reproduction of the building that served as the seat of Logan County government from 1840 – 1848. Reconstructed in 1953, the Postville Courthouse contains historical exhibits of the 8th Judicial Circuit, and a courtroom and offices furnished as they might have been when Lincoln worked as a circuit lawyer.

Metamora Courthouse State Historic Site (Metamora)

Be a spectator in the rooms where Lincoln argued more than 70 cases during his years as circuit lawyer. This beautifully renovated courthouse is one of only two 8th Judicial Circuit courthouses remaining on their original sites. In the community museum on the first floor, you'll find an array of artifacts from pioneer days through the Civil War.

Bryant Cottage State Historic Site (Bement)

Step into the historic parlor where Stephen Douglas and Abraham Lincoln met on July 29, 1858 to negotiate their seven joint discussions that would famously become known as the Lincoln-Douglas Debates. History credits these debates as helping to launch Lincoln's Presidential candidacy two years later. This historic site also tells the story of the home owner Francis Bryant and his family.

Vandalia Statehouse State Historic Site (Vandalia)

Step back in time to the early days of Illinois, a new member of the United States of America. The state capitol for Illinois from 1820 – 1839, the Vandalia Statehouse was the place Lincoln worked in his first years as an Illinois legislator. It was here he honed his skills as a legislator and gifted orator, and where his fellow legislators began to recognize his qualities as a leader of men.

Highways and Byways Showcase Lincoln's Landscape

A great way to visit the Abraham Lincoln National Heritage Area is along any one of the five different roads designated as American Scenic Byways. While you're looking for Lincoln, explore the many landscapes of Illinois on these beautiful drives. Experience the Illinois that Mr. Lincoln knew as he traveled the countryside as a prairie lawyer.

Illinois Route 66

U.S. Route 66 is arguably one of the most famous roads in the world. And part of that iconic road crisscrosses the Abraham Lincoln National Heritage Area in Illinois. For generations of travelers, Route 66 represents the freedom of the road – the chance to leave the everyday behind and step back to a simpler time – to the main streets of small town America. Mr. Lincoln may have made his road trips on the back of a horse or in a buggy, but your trip along Illinois Route 66 will let you follow his trail through central Illinois. Highways and Byways Showcase Lincoln's Landscape

Great River Road in Illinois

For over 500 miles on Illinois' western border, you'll find the breathtaking views and majestic landscapes along the mighty Mississippi. And, for many of those miles, you'll be traveling in the Abraham Lincoln National Heritage Area. Explore the country Lincoln loved as he rode from town to town as a prairie lawyer and a future president. Enjoy the banks and bluffs, the fields and prairies, and the waterways just as travelers during Lincoln's day would have experienced.

Historic National Road

America's first highway, known as the Historic National Road, was built on big plans to join the already civilized East Coast with the western frontier. From 1830 to 1838, as a young Abraham Lincoln was finding his way as a prairie lawyer and state legislator, construction of the Illinois portion of the road was underway. Although by the 1850s railroads became the preferred method of East-West travel in the U.S., the Illinois section of the National Road holds the stories of nearly two centuries of American history.

Meeting of the Great Rivers

Return to a time of simplicity and American values along the Meeting of the Great Rivers National Scenic Byway where the Mighty Mississippi, Missouri, and Illinois Rivers converge. The 33-mile Byway meanders its way through the Abraham Lincoln National Heritage Area, beginning in Hartford and ending in Grafton at Pere Marquette State Park. Make plans to explore the spectacular scenery, archaeological finds, historic happenings, cultural experiences and memorable recreation along the way.

Your Guides to the Life and Times of Abraham Lincoln

Want to learn more about the life, times, and legacy of Abraham Lincoln in central Illinois? Need some help planning your next Lincoln exploration? The Looking for Lincoln book series will help you do just that. The book series examines Lincoln's rise to greatness from his central Illinois roots and shares the region's history, culture, and significance in not only the Lincoln story – but in the story of our nation. The series, a collaborative effort between Southern Illinois University Press and the Looking for Lincoln Heritage Coalition, currently features four full-color, heavily illustrated guidebooks:

Lincoln's Springfield*; Lincoln and Mormon Country; A Guide to Lincoln's Eighth Judicial Circuit and Historic Houses of Lincoln's Illinois. For information on ordering your copy of one, or all, of the Looking for Lincoln books, visit our website at LookingForLincoln.org.

Lincoln's Springfield is a carefully researched, richly illustrated guide to the Springfield, Illinois, locations on the Looking for Lincoln Story Trail. These engaging stories bring Abraham Lincoln's hometown of Springfield alive to readers.

Lincoln and Mormon Country tells more than thirty fascinating and surprising stories that show how the lives of Lincoln and the Mormons intersected from the Mormon capital of Nauvoo to the state capital of Springfield. The book's maps, historic photos, and descriptions of battles, Mormon exhibitions, and events connect the stories to their physical locations.

A Guide to Lincoln's Eighth Judicial Circuit is a guidebook to the 8th Judicial Circuit. Author Guy Fraker guides travelers through the prairies to the towns Lincoln visited regularly as he practiced law in east central Illinois. Plan your trip traveling in Lincoln's footsteps on the 8th Judicial Circuit using this step-by-step guidebook.

Historic Houses in Lincoln's Illinois, features 22 historic buildings in the Abraham Lincoln National Heritage Area that are open to the public to visit. Each site links today's visitors with a place Lincoln loved, a home of a Lincoln friend or colleague, or a spot that illuminates Lincoln's era and legacy in central Illinois.
