

Fort Davis National Historic Site

A key post in the defense system of west Texas, Fort Davis played a major role in the history of the Southwest. From 1854 until 1891, troops stationed at the post protected emigrants, freighters, mail coaches, and travelers on the San Antonio- El Paso Road. Historians today regard Fort Davis NHS as one of the best surviving examples of a southwestern Indian Wars era frontier military post. It is a vivid reminder of the significant role played by the military in the settlement and development of the western frontier.

We invite you to join the Friends of Fort Davis National Historic Site

The Friends of Fort Davis National Historic Site was established in 1983 as a nonprofit organization whose goal is to acquire funds from membership dues, donations and grants. These funds are used to support projects approved by the NPS for which federal funds are not available.

You can be a part of the ongoing improvement of this fascinating, living example of America's frontier history. Your lasting contributions will benefit today's visitors and future generations that visit Fort Davis.
