GLACIER NATIONAL PARK

Historic Lodging

Yes, it is true...these historic beauties have floors that creak, walls that are thin, and separate hot and cold knobs on the sinks... but you are staying in an International Peace Park, a World Heritage site, a place so remote that it is only available to you for just over 100 days per year. We invite you to look at these historical features as charming and a quaint departure from everyday conveniences - a step back in time that allows you to enjoy the infinite splendors and majestic scenery that is Glacier National Park and Waterton Lakes National Park.

In Glacier National Park, you have a choice of five noticeably unique historic lodging properties. From the towering Many Glacier Hotel to the quaint little Village Inn at Apgar, you will find a great selection of overnight accommodations.

In East Glacier Park, the circa 1912 Glacier Park Lodge offers a variety of amenities and activities and is a short walk from the East Glacier train station.

In Waterton Lakes National Park, Alberta, the stately Prince of Wales Hotel offers unparalleled views and Afternoon Tea served in a British-style atmosphere.

About The Glacier Park Lodge.

Built in 1912, Glacier Park Lodge is nestled in East Glacier Park, MT situated on the Blackfeet Indian Reservation. Its close proximity to Glacier National Park and east Glacier train station makes this 161 room lodge a wonderful Montana destination. Great Northern Wing Rooms, Main Lodge Rooms, suites, and family rooms are all available.

Great Northern Wing Rooms are connected to the main lobby by a breezeway which offers a cozy area for writing or playing table games, reading, or just enjoying the scenic view.

The section of the Lodge containing the lobby and dining room was erected in 1912-1913 and opened to guests on June 15, 1913. The immense timbers that support the Lodge were probably 500 to 800 years old when they were cut and all of them retain their bark. There are 60 of them, 36 to 42 inches in diameter and 40 feet long. The timbers in the lobby are Douglas fir and the verandahs are supported by Cedars from Washington. The Blackfeet, awed by the size of the timbers called it "Omahkoyis" or "Big Tree Lodge".

Glacier Park Lodge features the Great Northern Dining Room, Empire Bar, Empire Cafe Espresso Stand, gift shop highlighting local Blackfeet crafts, Red Bus Tours, an outdoor swimming pool, a nine-hole golf course, a nine-hole pitch 'n putt course, and Remedies Day Spa.

All guest rooms have private bathrooms, direct dial telephones, queen, double, and/or twin beds. A limited number of family rooms, suites, and ADA-accessible rooms are available and are booked based on space available. Only designated guide, service, and/or hearing companion animals are allowed in the Lodge. Televisions, air conditioning, internet access, and elevators are not available. All rooms and facilities are non-smoking, except for designated smoking areas located throughout the property.
