National Park System in California

1 mus

Welcome to National Park country!

There are 20 National Park System areas in California—all are unique, each preserves a significant part of our natural, historical or recreational heritage.

In addition to such famous national parks as Yosemite, Sequoia and Death Valley, you'll find caves formed by boulders from an extinct volcano at Pinnacles, a Miwok Indian Village at Point Reyes, whale watching at Cabrillo, sea lions at Channel Islands, soldiers in Civil War dress at Fort Point, and much, much more. They are here for you to enjoy—but also to help preserve and protect—as a future legacy for all Americans.

In 1979, there were over 24 million visits to these areas. You'll enjoy them more during the week and in the off-season when they are less crowded. When planning your next park trip, consider some you haven't seen before. You may well enjoy them as much as your favorites.

GENERAL INFORMATION

Accommodations, meals and miscellaneous services are provided within many NPS areas by concessioners. Demand often exceeds availability during the heaviest months of travel. During these busy periods it is advisable to make reservations well in advance. Where accommodations are not provided within the park, they usually are available in nearby communities.

Campgrounds are maintained in many areas of the National Park System in California. Special recreation use fees are charged, and range from $1 to $4 per night per site. Most automobile campsites are on a first-come, first-serve basis. Reservations for campsites in selected campgrounds in Yosemite and Sequoia National Parks may be reserved for summer months through Ticketron outlets, or by writing to: Ticketron, P.O. Box 2715, San Francisco, CA 94126. Ticketron charges a reservation fee.

Entrance Fees: Single visit entrance fees, where charged, range from $1 to $3 per private passenger vehicle. No additional entry fee is charged during your stay in a particular park; a second fee is charged if you leave and re-enter the park after the first day of your visit.

The Golden Eagle Passport—a $10 annual entrance permit—admits you and occupants of the car to unlimited entry to all National Park System fee areas for a calendar year. The Golden Age Passport—a lifetime permit available free to all citizens 62 years or older—admits you and others in your car to unlimited entry to all National Park System fee areas and a 50 percent reduction in all Federal campground fees. Application must be made in person, with proof of age.

Fishing: California State fishing regulations apply and a valid state fishing license is required. Check with the park you will be visiting for specific regulations on fishing.

Transportation: Commercial bus service is available to many areas of the National Park System. Commercial tours also are available to many areas. In Yosemite Valley and Point Reyes National Seashore, free shuttle buses are available. Check with the park for schedules.

Wilderness Permits: Permits are required for all overnight stays in the backcountry. They may be obtained at ranger stations within the parks visited. In some heavily used areas, entry into the backcountry has been limited. Contact the park in advance for specific regulations.

As the Nation's principal conservation agency, the Department of the Interior has responsibility for most of our nationally owned public lands and natural resources. This includes fostering the wisest use of our land and water resources, protecting our fish and wildlife, preserving the environmental and cultural values of our national parks and historical places, and providing for the enjoyment of life through outdoor recreation. The Department assesses our energy and mineral resources and works to assure that their development is in the best interests of all our people. The Department also has a major responsibility for American Indian reservation communities and for people who live in Island Territories under U.S. administration.

PROTECT YOUR PARK AND YOURSELF

Your visit to one of the National Park System areas can be a pleasurable and rewarding experience—or it can be a time of vexation, distress, or even tragedy. Much depends on how you and your family observe park rules and avoid hazards. Park regulations are designed to protect the natural beauty of the area and to provide for your safety, comfort, and convenience. The use of fires, and the participation in such activities as backpacking, swimming, fishing, and rock climbing are governed by regulations that take into account local conditions and problems. Park rangers will help and advise you as well as enforce regulations. If you need information or are in difficulty, see a park ranger. Complete regulations are available at park headquarters.
