

U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service

Pahranagat

National Wildlife Refuge

Explore Your Refuge

A place of endless natural wonders!

© Allen Woosley

Sharon K. Schafer/USFWS

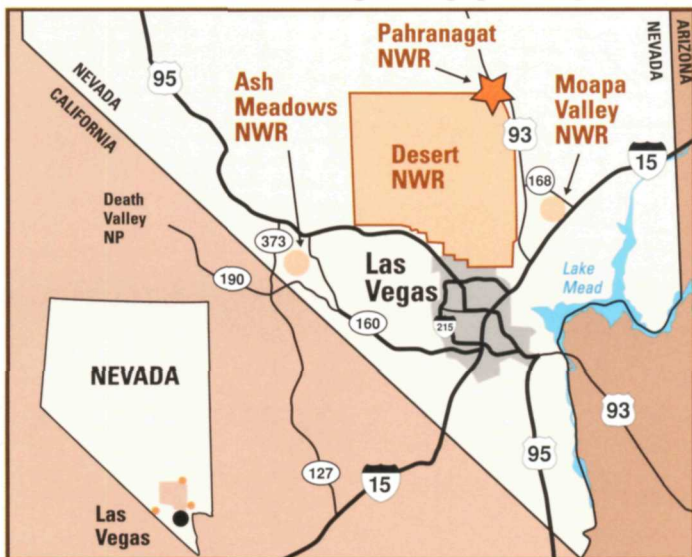

USFWS

Preserved for thousands of migratory waterfowl and home for endangered species, Pahranaagat National Wildlife Refuge is a wildlife treasure of unparalleled beauty.

The calls of colorful mallards, grebes, and herons echo across the water to their newly hatched young during spring and early summer. Cottonwoods display brilliant oranges and yellows as the wetlands fill with migrating waterfowl each fall. In winter the refuge's most majestic visitors, bald eagles, feast on the wetlands' fish.

Lakeside picnic areas and an abundance of trails offer visitors a tranquil opportunity to enjoy the wildlife whether taking photographs, hiking, kayaking, canoeing, or birding. Hunting is also permitted on the southern portion of the refuge on Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays during the state hunting season.

Visitors from Las Vegas should plan for a 1.5-hour travel time. The refuge is open ~~daily~~ <sup>Fri-Sun</sup> throughout the year. For more information, call 775/ 725 3417 or visit www.fws.gov/refuge/pahranaagat

Pahranaagat National Wildlife Refuge
P.O. Box 510, Alamo, NV 89001

January 2014