Signs Protect Visitors and Resources

Millions of people visit national wildlife refuges each year. The impact of human activity, if not regulated, can degrade these wild lands. Signs control recreational activities while protecting natural resources on the refuge. Please respect the following signs:

National Wildlife Refuge
This sign marks the boundary of the refuge. Consult the refuge manager for authorized activities.

Area Closed
Certain areas of the refuge are closed to visitors for safety and management purposes. Unauthorized entry beyond this sign is prohibited.

No Vehicles
Unauthorized motor vehicles are not allowed beyond this sign. This applies to all cars, trucks, jeeps, ATV's, and motorcycles. Walking and non-motorized bicycles are allowed. Please do not block access through refuge gates.

No Wake Zone
Boat speeds are managed to improve public safety and to reduce bank erosion.

Savannah Coastal Refuges Complex

The chain of National Wildlife Refuges (NWR) that forms the Savannah Coastal Refuges Complex extends from Pinckney Island NWR near Hilton Head Island, South Carolina, to Wolf Island NWR near Darien, Georgia. Between these lie Savannah, Wassaw, Tybee, Harris Neck, and Blackbeard Island National Wildlife Refuges. Together they span a 100-mile stretch of coastline and total over 57,000 acres. The Savannah Coastal Refuges are administered from headquarters located at the Savannah NWR Visitor Center in Hardeeville, South Carolina.

Fishing is permitted in accordance with state regulations on Blackbeard Island, Harris Neck, Wassaw, and Wolf Island NWRs, located in Georgia, and on Pinckney Island, located in South Carolina (Tybee NWR is closed to all public use). Fishing is also permitted on Savannah NWR, which has lands in both Georgia and South Carolina; there is no reciprocal agreement between the two states, therefore anglers must obtain the correct license for the state they are fishing in. Specific regulations for each refuge are listed separately in this brochure.

Anglers seeking freshwater opportunities should try Savannah NWR. Freshwater species include: largemouth bass, striped bass, catfish, crappie, sunfish and bowfin. Those anglers seeking saltwater fishing opportunities should try Pinckney Island, Wassaw, Blackbeard Island, Harris Neck, and Wolf Island NWRs. Saltwater species include flounder, red drum, spotted sea trout, black drum, sheepshead, whiting, and mullet.

General Fishing Regulations for the Savannah Coastal Refuges Complex

The regulations within this brochure supplement the general regulations that govern fishing on National Wildlife Refuges as set forth in the Title 50 Code of Federal Regulations <http://www.gpoaccess.gov/ecfr>.

State fish laws and regulations are adopted and set in effect unless they have been further restricted by Federal law or regulations.

Licenses, permits, all fishing equipment and effects, and vehicles, boats, or other conveyances are subject to inspection by federal or state officers.

Crabbing: State regulations apply to all crabbing activities in refuge waters.

Cast Netting: State regulations apply to all cast netting activities in refuge waters.

Daily Possession Limits: State regulations apply to all freshwater and saltwater game species limits. Please visit <http://www.georgiawildlife.com/fishing/regulations> or <http://www.dnr.sc.gov/regs/fishing.html> for details.

Boat, Motor, and Operation Limits: Motorized boat usage is prohibited within the freshwater areas of Blackbeard Island, Harris Neck, Pinckney Island, Wassaw, and Wolf Island NWRs. Boats are allowed at Savannah NWR; however, only non-motorized boats or boats with electric motors are permitted within freshwater impoundments, including Kingfisher Pond. All Coast Guard and state boating regulations will be enforced.

License Requirements

All Georgia recreational anglers must possess a valid state fishing license, as well as the state's free Saltwater Information Permit (SIP) to fish on Blackbeard Island, Harris Neck, Wassaw, and Wolf Island NWRs. For Georgia waters within the Savannah NWR, only the state fishing license is required (not valid in South Carolina waters). Fishing licenses for the state of Georgia can be obtained through the Georgia Department of Natural Resources website at: <http://www.gofishgeorgia.com/>

South Carolina anglers must possess a valid state freshwater fishing license to fish the Savannah NWR (not valid in Georgia waters). For Pinckney Island NWR, a state saltwater fishing license is required. Fishing licenses for the state of South Carolina can be obtained through the South Carolina Department of Natural Resources website at: <http://www.dnr.sc.gov/>
