

Cane River Creole National Historical Park

Transition to Freedom Oakland Plantation

These simple quarters at Oakland were the homes of enslaved workers. After the Civil War, many of these former slaves kept working at Oakland as freedmen and women. Some of their children and grandchildren continued to live in the quarters until the 1950s. Without the people who lived in these quarters, Oakland Plantation would not have survived.

To learn more, visit: www.nps.gov/cari

NATIONAL PARK SERVICE