

Frederick Douglass

Frederick Douglass escaped from slavery in 1838. He attacked the institution with brilliant words, publishing the North Star newspaper and speaking across the country. During the war he advised Abraham Lincoln. After the war he continued to fight for equal rights for all Americans.

To learn more, visit: www.nps.gov/frdo

NATIONAL PARK SERVICE