ACADIA NATIONAL PARK

BAR HARBOR, MAINE

With lobster buoys bobbing on the salty waves of the Atlantic and clear, coastal skies above, Acadia National Park captures much of the New England spirit in these 41,000 acres. One of the more popular attractions is Cadillac Mountain, the tallest of the eastern seaboard, where the peak offers arresting views of evergreen forests and deep blue sea below.

Also exclusive to the eastern coast is Somes Sound, the region's only fjord.

The mountains, lakes, seashores, glacier-carved valleys and forests of Mount Desert Island are visible from the 20-mile Park Loop Road.

SPECIAL INFORMATION

Algae build-up on rocky shores and ledges make for slippery conditions. Camping and fires are prohibited in some areas; heed warning signs. • Superintendent, Acadia National Park, P.O. Box 177, Bar Harbor, ME 04609 (207) 288-3338.
