HOT SPRINGS NATIONAL PARK

ARKANSAS

About 850,000 gallons of hot (143 degrees), bubbly water gushes from the base of Hot Springs Mountain each day in Hot Springs, Arkansas. Numerous bathhouses draw vacationers to this stylish city seeking the soothing, relaxing comforts of pure spring water.

The newly restored historic Fordyce Bathhouse which has been converted into the park's visitor center, features steam cabinets and tubs set in period decor. Visitors can bring containers to draw water from thermal-water fountains or cold-water springs to take home.

Hot Springs Mountain Tower rises 216 feet and offers stunning views of the city.

SPECIAL INFORMATION

If traveling by foot over mountain terrain, be wary of uneven trails. Be cautious of stinging insects. Bring repellent. Dress appropriately to avoid poison ivy in wooded areas. • Superintendent, Hot Springs National Park, P.O. Box 1860, Hot Springs, AR 71902 (501) 624-3383 ext. 640.
