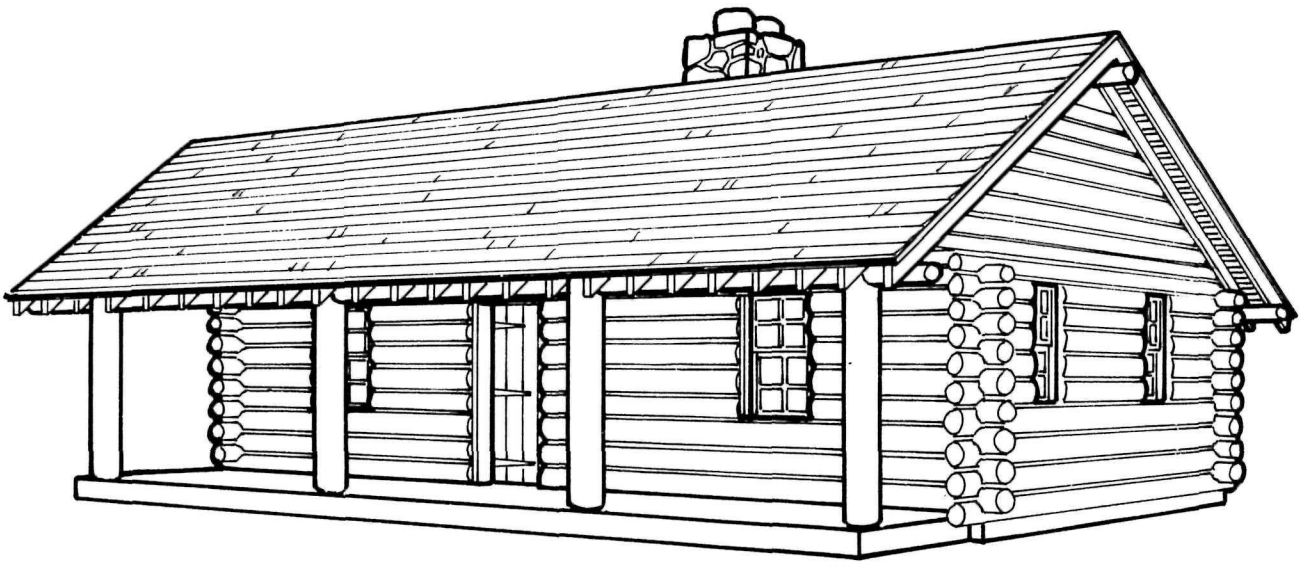
A Log Cabin

Classic



There is a genuine romance about the classic American log cabin that continues to make it a favorite for camping in the woods, by a lake or in the mountains.

This simple three room plan can be adapted for heating, plumbing and electrical hook-ups or can meet all the basic living requirements through kerosene lamps and stoves and a chemical toilet. A particularly nice feature of the plan is the large porch supported by peeled logs where campers can catch the "cool vapors" of a summer or fall evening. The location of the fireplace provides sufficient heat for the two bedrooms in winter.
