The Acadia Experience

Protecting over 47,000 acres along the rugged Maine coast, Acadia National Park is one of the gems of the National Park System. Thanks to the foresight and dedication of the early conservationists who set aside this refuge of mountains, forests, lakes, and coastline, Acadia offers something to please all tastes. Whether you prefer a quiet moment to relax and take in an ocean view, or a strenuous hike through rich woodlands to a rocky summit, you can find it here.

To get to know the park, join a park ranger for a guided hike, seaside investigation, or amphitheater program. Experience the thrill of watching migrating hawks soar high overhead, explore the stories of the Maine coast on a boat cruise, or stroll along Acadia's scenic carriage roads to uncover the secrets of fall's vibrant colors. For program descriptions and a schedule, see pages 4-6.

If you prefer to explore on your own, start at Hulls Cove Visitor Center. Here you can buy your entrance pass, watch a short orientation movie, and plan your visit using a three-dimensional map of Mount Desert Island. The bookstore carries guidebooks, children's stories, maps, and more, and park rangers are available to answer your questions.

From the visitor center or the Village Green in Bar Harbor, you can hop on fare-free Island Explorer buses until October 10, 2005. Propane-powered buses link popular park destinations to neighboring villages on the island. Buying your park pass keeps this unique service running.

A trip along the Park Loop Road, with its spectacular scenery and interesting stops, is a must for Acadia visitors. Museums and concession facilities are open until mid to late October (see inside for details). Be aware that the road can be congested; please drive safely. Sieur de Monts Spring serves as a memorial to George B. Dorr, the driving force behind the establishment of the park and Acadia's first superintendent. Learn about natural and cultural history at the Nature Center and the Abbe Museum. Travel along stunning Ocean Drive, where you can walk Sand Beach or listen for the sometimes-booming waters of Thunder Hole. Stop at Wildwood Stables for a horse-drawn carriage ride, then continue to the Jordan Pond area, which features hiking trails and the Jordan Pond House, where you can stop for refreshments. At the northern end of the Park Loop Road, Cadillac Mountain Road takes you to the highest point on the eastern seaboard of North America. Early risers can enjoy a spectacular sunrise over the island-dotted ocean.

Volunteers clean leaves from drainages on a carriage road.

For active visitors, the historic carriage road and hiking trail systems beckon. Built by John D. Rockefeller Jr. in the early 20th century, the carriage roads continue to offer the same automobile-free experience envisioned at their inception. With carriage roads winding throughout the east side of the island, you can take a short, leisurely ride or link segments to create a day-long bicycling adventure. (Note: Bicycles are not permitted on hiking trails or privately owned carriage roads.) Over 120 miles of hiking trails, many created by the island's village improvement societies in the late 1800s and early 1900s, crisscross the island. You can choose between well-traveled routes or more isolated trails that provide solitude.

This is by no means an exhaustive list of activities in the park, and there is no singular "Acadia experience." Whatever you choose to do during your time here, remember to honor the tradition of conservation begun by the park's founders nearly one hundred years ago.

More of Acadia

Schoodic Peninsula: The park protects more than 2,000 acres on the Schoodic Peninsula, located fifty miles from Bar Harbor by road. It is the only section of the park on the mainland. A one-way, six-mile loop road skirts the edge of the peninsula, offering sweeping views of Mount Desert Island. The Schoodic Education and Research Center, one of 17 research learning centers in the National Park Service, is located here.

Isle Au Haut: More than 2,500 acres on Isle au Haut, a remote offshore island accessible by boat from Stonington, are also part of the park. Rocky shoreline, wooded uplands, marshes, bogs, and a freshwater lake offer opportunities for day hiking and solitude. Duck Harbor Campground, a remote five-site campground, is available by advance reservation only.

Outside the Park

On Mount Desert Island, the park is surrounded by scenic island harbors, quaint towns, and an operational lighthouse. On the west side of the island lie the year-round community of Southwest Harbor and the traditional downeast villages of Bass Harbor and Bernard, where you'll find docks piled high with lobster traps and harbors filled with fishing boats. Nearby, the Bass Harbor Head Lighthouse has warned generations of mariners that land is near. On the east side of the island is Northeast Harbor, filled with pleasure craft and working boats.

Local communities offer boat trips, whale watching, bike rentals, and kayaking trips. For more information, contact local chambers of commerce.

Where Do Your Fees Go?

The majority of fees paid in Acadia stay right here. The Recreational Fee Demonstration Program, first authorized by Congress in 1996, mandates that 80 percent of fees paid in Acadia stay in the park to be used for projects that directly benefit park visitors and resources. Your fees are used for a variety of projects that improve the condition of natural and cultural resources and make the park a safer place for you to visit. Some of the projects financed by fees in 2005 include:

- Rehabilitation of the historic trails system
- Vista management along the Park Loop Road and carriage roads
- Replacement of the park's radio system
- Rehabilitation of the grounds at Sieur de Monts Spring

In addition to these projects, your fees help finance the Island Explorer, a seasonal public transit system that serves Acadia National Park and local communities. Increases in entrance fees begun in 2004 reflect a transportation fee that directly supports Island Explorer: $10 from every weekly pass and Acadia National Park Pass sold during the season goes into a special transportation account. These transportation fees will help defray the cost of long-term expansion of the system, helping eliminate traffic problems in the park.

Established in the late 1990s to reduce traffic congestion, parking, and air pollution problems, Island Explorer provides a fare-free, eco-friendly transportation alternative. The Island Explorer bus system was created through a partnership between the National Park Service, U.S. Department of Transportation, Maine Department of Transportation, Friends of Acadia, six municipalities, and private businesses. Downeast Transportation Inc., a nonprofit organization, operates the fleet of propane-powered buses.

Please support the Island Explorer and other projects by buying a park pass at the following locations:

Open through the end of October

- Blackwoods Campground
- Hulls Cove Visitor Center
- Park Headquarters
- Sand Beach Entrance Station

Open through early October

- Bar Harbor Village Green
- Seawall Campground
- Thompson Island Visitor Center

All visitors who enter the park, regardless of how or where they enter, must pay an entrance fee. We thank you for your support!

Protecting Native Species: Mission Possible?

Parks are important refuges for native plants and animals. The value of protected areas like Acadia National Park becomes more evident each day as threats to native species' survival increase. One of the major threats today is the presence of invasive exotic species, non-native plants and animals introduced by humans into an area where they did not previously exist.

Throughout the National Park System, exotic plants infest some 2.6 million acres. Approximately 25% of Acadia's more than 1,000 plant species are exotic, including purple loosestrife and lupine. While many exotic plants appear to be benign, several species are extremely invasive and pose threats to native plants and communities by out-competing them for water, nutrients, and space. This in turn interferes with the survival of the animals that rely on native plants for food and shelter. In Maine, native fish and aquatic life are threatened by aggressive exotic plants like milfoil, which can be transported on boats moved from infected lakes.

Non-native animals can also create major disruptions. Two hundred and thirty-four National Park Service units have invasive animals in need of management. From zebra mussels decimating native mussel populations in Great Lakes watersheds, to the hemlock wooly adelgid (an aphid-like insect) destroying entire stands of eastern hemlock trees in Great Smoky Mountains and Shenandoah National Parks, to pet snakes being "freed" in Everglades National Park, exotic animals are greatly impacting our environment. Acadia has some non-native animal species, including a number of marine invasive organisms that can harm native species by displacing or preying on them, impacting habitat, or introducing new parasites and diseases.

So what is the park doing to protect its native plants and animals? Is it an impossible mission? We don't think so, but ensuring the health and well-being of parks requires hard work. Staff must determine whether a particular exotic poses a serious threat to native resources and if control is feasible, identify and monitor areas where non-native plants grow, and decide which treatments will be effective.

Areas requiring revegetation are planted with native species.

You can help turn the fight against exotics into a "mission possible." Contact your local cooperative extension to learn about destructive plants in your area. Don't buy invasive plants from nurseries; garden with native plants instead. Watch your step while exploring natural areas and stay on designated trails to avoid crushing fragile plants. Clean and dry your boat and gear after removing it from lakes with invasive species. Don't release pets that are no longer wanted; talk to your veterinarian to find them a new home. Learn more about our country's rich native plant and animal life so you can help ensure that your children and grandchildren can enjoy it, too.

Help Us Revegetate!

In response to extensive rehabilitation at the carriage road bridges and Seawall Campground, the park has undertaken a revegetation project to replace much of the vegetation that was disturbed during construction. Here's how you can help make this project a success and help restore these areas to their natural condition.

- Areas where native plants are planted will be roped off and signed to indicate what's happening there. Small trees and shrubs will be mulched with wood chips. Please don't walk through these areas or damage new or existing plants.
- Stay on designated paths. Shortcuts kill plants.
- When visiting the carriage road bridges, use park-maintained trails to view them. Don't trample plants by creating your own path.

Remember: It only takes one footstep to kill a plant!

Spirit of Acadia Events September/October 2005

Spirit of Acadia is a volunteer organization established in 2004 to focus attention on the legacy of the men and women who brought Acadia National Park into being in the early 20th century. The committee coordinated the following fall 2005 activities—sponsored by island libraries, museums, and historical societies—honoring park founders, including George B. Dorr, the first superintendent of Acadia.

Acadia's Four-Legged Friend

While you're out exploring this fall, keep an eye out for Max, the park's 11-year-old chestnut quarterhorse, and his park ranger. Max is the focus of the park's mounted patrol program, now in its second year of operation. Max helps make rangers available to assist visitors on the horse-friendly sections of the carriage road system. While Max primarily travels on the Jordan Pond and Bubble Pond loops, he sometimes visits other areas of the carriage roads, as well as Seawall and Blackwoods Campgrounds.

Thanks to the generous support of Friends of Acadia, the Mount Desert Island chapter of the Equine Affairs Association, and many other local residents, Max can be seen out on patrol four to five days a week. If you happen across Max during your adventures in the park, be sure to say hello and give him plenty of room to pass.

Ocean Discovery with a Ranger

Are you captivated by the sea, by its mysteries, life, and legends? Do you wonder about the life of hardy Maine islanders? Are you curious about the lobster you had for dinner last night? If you answered yes to any of these questions, a park ranger-narrated boat tour is for you! Three boat cruises offered in conjunction with the park feature a park ranger onboard to tell the stories of the Maine coast.

The Islesford Historical Cruise travels through the Cranberry Isles to Little Cranberry Island. After stopping at the Islesford Historical Museum, where you can explore an exhibit featuring the age of sail and catch a glimpse of island life, the cruise takes you into Somes Sound, a fjord that cleaves Mount Desert Island nearly in two. Throughout the cruise, park rangers discuss the relationship between people and the sea and search for wildlife.

On the Frenchman Bay Cruise, imagine you are back in the 19th century as you cruise on a 151-foot, four-masted schooner replica. Learn about wildlife and history and, if you're feeling strong, maybe even lend a hand when the sails are unfurled.

On the Dive-In Theater Boat Cruise, you can watch real-time video of a diver searching the ocean floor for sea life to bring aboard your boat for hands-on exploration. While cruising through Frenchman Bay, you may spot seals, porpoises, and coastal bird life.

Each of these ranger-led boat cruises are offered multiple times per week through early October. Reservations are recommended. Please see pages 4-6 for schedule, fee, and reservation information.

Please be prepared for your ocean adventure. Bring warm clothes (layers are helpful), sunscreen, and binoculars and wear rubber-soled shoes. Don't forget your camera so you can capture surfacing seals and porpoises or spectacular coastal scenery.

Get your sea legs ready and head out on a boat cruise with a park ranger. Space is limited, so make your reservations today!

Park Concessions

Park concessions offer services to visitors within Acadia National Park. Acadia Corporation operates shops at Cadillac Mountain, Thunder Hole, and Jordan Pond. Visit the Jordan Pond House for traditional tea and popovers, or a full lunch or dinner. For reservations, contact the Jordan Pond House at 207-276-3316. Closes for the season on October 24, 2005.

Wildwood Stables, located one mile southeast of Jordan Pond, features horse-drawn carriage tours along Acadia's historic carriage roads. Enjoy scenic vistas and cool forests on your narrated tour. Private tours and stabling for your personal horse are also available. For information, contact Wildwood Stables at 207-276-3622. Closes for the season on October 10, 2005.

If you'd like to sit back and relax as you learn about Acadia National Park and Mount Desert Island, a narrated bus tour might be just the activity for you. Beginning and ending in Bar Harbor, these tours explore the natural and cultural history of the park and surrounding area. Stops include many popular park sights, including Cadillac Mountain. National Park Tours (207-288-0300) offers 2½-hour tours. Oli's Trolley (207-288-9899) offers both 1-hour and 2½-hour tours. Advance reservations recommended.

The Jordan Pond House offers tea and popovers, as well as a full lunch and dinner, in a spectacular setting.

Keep Acadia's Wildlife Wild

Acadia offers many opportunities for observing wildlife. Deer browse alongside the Park Loop Road; songbirds dart through forests of peeling birch trees; raptors circle high overhead. Because of Acadia's small size and proximity to towns and residential areas, these animals often come in close contact with people. We must do our part to ease this contact, helping ensure the safety and health of wild animals. When you encounter wildlife, remember these things:

- Never feed wild animals, including gulls. Human food can make them ill and create beggar animals that no longer retain a healthy respect of humans.
- Keep your distance. Do not approach wild animals. If you suddenly find yourself too close, back away and give them room to escape. Use binoculars to get a close-up view.
- When camping, all food, garbage, and cooking equipment must be stored in an enclosed vehicle or hard-sided locker whenever you are not present. This precaution will help prevent wild animals from being attracted to your campsite.
- Keep your pet(s) on a six-foot or shorter leash at all times and stay on designated trails or roads, thereby protecting wildlife and your pet.
- Respect closures established to protect plants and animals, especially nesting peregrines, seabirds, and eagles. Intrusion by humans can cause nesting attempts to fail.
- Remember that protecting wildlife in our national parks not only makes good sense, but also it is the law. All national parks have strict regulations concerning the protection of wildlife. When in doubt, ask a park ranger first.
- Be aware of wildlife along roads, especially at dusk and dawn. Pay close attention and lower your speed, allowing them and you a better chance to avoid an accident.

Fox, deer, beaver, porcupine, and other animals are not uncommon along roadsides on the island. Please drive carefully. Photo by NPS/Lora Haller.

Don't forget: Acadia National Park is home to a variety of wildlife. Let's do our part to make the park a safe place for them to live.

Protect Your Park

- Protect fragile plant life by staying on trails.
- Leave what you find. Removing natural and historic objects such as beach cobbles, flowers, marine life, and antlers degrades the park and is illegal.
- All pets must be on a leash no longer than six feet for the protection of your pet, visitors, and wildlife. Some trails and all beaches are closed to pets.
- Pack it in. Pack it out. Carry out anything you have brought into the park. Better yet, carry out any other litter you find, too!
- Keep wildlife wild. Wild animals fed by people often starve in winter, are hit by cars, or become dangerous pests.
- Trail markers (cairns) are carefully maintained by the park. Please do not remove or add to these.
- Protect water sources. Do not swim in bodies of water marked as water supplies.
- Ride the propane-powered Island Explorer shuttle bus to help reduce traffic and pollution in the park.
- Camping and fires are allowed only in established areas.

Protect Yourself

- Always carry water, a map, adequate clothing, a first aid kit, and a flashlight while hiking.
- Be sure to tell someone your plans—when you are leaving, where you are going, and when you will return.
- Be careful near cliff edges, especially if the rock is wet.
- Remain in one place if you become lost or separated from your group.
- Always wear a helmet when riding a bike. Obey all traffic laws, including one-way signs.
- Be sure to check for ticks as Lyme disease can occur in this area. If walking through tall grass, consider wearing long pants and using insect repellent.
- Drive safely and wear your seat belt. The speed limit is 35 mph in the park unless otherwise noted. It is easy to get distracted by scenery—pay attention.
- Do not leave valuables in your vehicle.
- Yield to wildlife on roads. Give them plenty of room and remain at a safe distance.
- Remember: When in doubt, ask a park ranger first!
