MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

BY MITCH HOMMA

Happy holiday season from the Amache Alliance Board of Directors and special advisors. Remembrance and reflection are what we cherish after a busy year of Amache activities, especially the annual pilgrimage. While amongst Amache's historic features, we enjoyed sharing and hearing stories with a wider group of family, friends and community. Looking back, I feel immense gratitude to our loyal donors, friends, and volunteers who continue to make our mission achievable. We love so many things about supporting the Amache site and community.

Formed in the summer of 2021, the Amache Alliance used 2022 to mature the organization and position ourselves to support the establishment of the national historic site. This past October 2023, the town of Granada officially conveyed the Amache property to the National Park Service (NPS). The next step is the official establishment and activation notice from the Secretary of Interior Deb Haaland.

Throughout this process we were privileged to collaborate with brilliant and dedicated community partners and organizations in CO, CA, and Washington D.C. We are also sincerely grateful to the National Park Conservation Association, Colorado Preservation, Inc. and Jane Daniels, History Colorado, and Colorado congressional members, for their ongoing support. We continue to feel humbled and honored by the generosity of our long-standing community partners like the Amache Preservation Society (APS) and the University of Denver Amache Project, whose teams help care for the Amache site and museum.

Mitch Homma at his family's 12K barrack.

As we look to the future, we understand that these next steps will help set the foundation blocks for the preservation of Amache. The Alliance plans to stay involved and support the current on-site managers, the APS, future NPS caretakers, and the continuation of existing projects working to enhance the visitor experience through historical interpretation of the site.

NPS NEWS AND STATUS FOR AMACHE NATIONAL HISTORIC SITE LAND TRANSFER

- New High Plains Group Superintendent, Eric Leonard from Guadalupe Mountains National Park, started on June 4. Amache, Sand Creek Massacre, and Bent's Fort fall under his management group.
- New Amache Site Manager is Chris Mather and started on May 21 and is renting an office in the Amache museum.
- Both Chris and Eric were able to attend the pilgrimage with their Intermountain Regional Director, Kate Hammond and Sand Creek Massacre NHS representatives.
- This past October, the town of Granada officially conveyed the Amache property to the National Park Service. The Town of Granada Mayor, Argie Thrall, and Title Officer, Dee Melgosa, signed the closing papers. Congratulations, Amache National Historic Site! The next step is the activation letter from the Secretary of the Interior Deb Haaland.

AMACHE FOUNDATION DOCUMENT WORKSHOP

The New Year started off with key work for providing input to the National Park Service (NPS) supporting the creation of the Amache Foundation document. The NPS invited the Amache stakeholder group to a January 2-day in-person Amache Foundation Document workshop in Lakewood, CO. We were provided general information about NPS Foundation Documents purposes, the workshop process, other NPS sites example foundation documents, and some Amache-specific resources ahead of time as pre-workshop homework.

The purpose of the workshop is to bring together an interdisciplinary team to develop a foundation document for park planning and management. Input from the Amache Special Resource Study, which the public provided input, was used as a starting point for many of the sections. The result of the workshop was a draft foundation document which was provided for review and public comments on the NPS Planning, Environment & Public Comment (PEPC) website. <https://parkplanning.nps.gov/projectHome.cfm?projectId=114923>

Chuck Lawson leads the Foundation Document Workshop in Denver, Colorado, January 21-22, 2023.

FOUNDATION DOCUMENT PUBLIC MEETINGS

The process also included 12 public meetings across Colorado and California. The two-part meetings included a 30 minute NPS staff presentation on background information of the development of the park's Foundation Document. The remaining time was managed as an open house with NPS planners and park staff available to answer questions, take comments, and recommendations on the content of the Foundation Document and ideas on the park's future management. Each meeting had Amache survivors in attendance and the Amache Alliance supported the California meetings.

This foundation document process usually starts after the NPS site is established, but Amache was very fortunate to received funding and permission to start the process early. With the closure of the June 23 public comment period, the NPS team will develop a summary of civic engagement outcomes and reconvene with workshop participants to make final refinements to draft Foundation Document content in June thru July.

APS HONORED BY THE NATIONAL PARKS CONSERVATION ASSOCIATION

In a special ceremony March 29th in Washington DC, the National Parks Conservation Association (NPCA) presented the Amache Preservation Society (APS) with the 2022 Marjory Stoneman Douglas Citizen Conservationist of the Year Award. Established in 1986, NPCA's annual Marjory Stoneman Douglas Award honors individuals who go to great lengths to advocate and fight for the protection of our national parks.

APS plays a pivotal role at Amache in Colorado, also known as the Granada Relocation Center, which served as an incarceration site for Japanese Americans during World War II. Thanks to the dedication of the APS, along with Amache survivors, descendants, and other advocates in partnership with NPCA, President Biden signed the Amache National Historic Site Act into law in March of 2022. As a new addition to the National Park System, the site will keep this significant piece of history alive while honoring the people who were unjustly imprisoned.

"It is a privilege to work alongside the extraordinary leaders and volunteers at the Amache Preservation Society and honor their work today with the Marjory Stoneman Douglas Award," said Theresa Pierno, President and CEO of the National Parks Conservation Association. "APS Founder John Hopper and the organization's incredible students have worked tirelessly for decades to keep the stories of Amache alive. Through their perseverance to protect Amache as a national park site, APS has helped create a place where generations of learning, reflection, and healing can continue."

Accepting this award on behalf of the Amache Preservation Society was Mitch Homma from the Amache Alliance and Adam Hopper, John Hopper's son. The NPCA is an ally of the Amache Alliance and is a major advocate of the APS and several Amache preservation projects.

"The Amache Preservation Society students led by Mr. John Hopper are a model and inspiration for this country's progress in telling a more representative story," said Mitch Homma, Amache descendant and Amache Alliance President. "They have taught and changed a town, region, and nation about an almost forgotten historical and cultural site. My family and I are honored that this heroic work will be forever preserved and protected in the National Park System and see much promise for the future ahead."

The Amache Alliance was able to thank the NPCA leadership, government affairs, and Board of Trustees for their support and also invited them to attend the Amache Pilgrimage. NPCA regional leadership and Board of Trustees members attended the pilgrimage and were able to experience the preservation, education, and witness their support in action.

“THE AMACHE PRESERVATION SOCIETY STUDENTS LED BY MR. JOHN HOPPER ARE A MODEL AND INSPIRATION FOR THIS COUNTRY’S PROGRESS IN TELLING A MORE REPRESENTATIVE STORY”

After the award ceremony, the Alliance was able to visit the Dept. of Interior NPS Headquarters office and meet with Mike Reynolds, Deputy Director, External Affairs, and Jim Wilson, Assistant Director, Communications. We were able to thank them for their support to Amache, update them on the status of various projects, and catch up from last year's Amache Pilgrimage. Jim Wilson presented us with the 2022 Day of Remembrance Proclamation, signed by President Biden the day after the Amache National Historic Act passed the Senate and House. This special document was framed and brought to this year's Amache Pilgrimage and will live in the Amache Museum in Granada, Colorado.

CHECKING IN ON AMACHE, APRIL 2023

After a busy first three months of the year filled with Amache speaking engagements, thank you meetings, and award receptions, our first chance to visit Amache was in April. We also wanted to meet in person with acting site manager, Kara Miyagishima, to discuss a full list of Amache transition status questions. Kara let us know that the two big land transfer tasks, which focus on looking for site contaminants, had been scheduled:

1. Ground Penetrating Radar was used during a search of the old Amache motor pool area looking for underground fuel storage tanks at the front of the site. This was completed just before the May pilgrimage. The initial reports were good as they did not find anything and no further investigation is required.

2. Drilling for water samples between the historic dump and current Granada landfill was scheduled just after the pilgrimage in May. Chris Mather, NPS Amache Site Manager, reports the drilling went well, pumps are in, and initial reporting is good.

The next day, we met with John Hopper and got to see the broken water pipe and water damage at the museum. Back on December 30, 2022, one of the museum’s water pipe burst during a deep freeze out in Granada. The APS students worked fast and there was no damage to any of the artifacts or collections. When we saw John, the insurance company had just approved the repairs for new flooring. Other repair costs were covered by APS (See the previous page or back page for ways you can help support the APS).

Discussions with John Hopper included details of a pre-pilgrimage volunteer day to support APS and the Town of Granada with the following:

- Help set up the museum for the upcoming pilgrimage
- Set up the high school for the impressive potluck lunch
- Set up community center for Friday night and Saturday afternoon programs
- Clean up the front entrance, cemetery, barracks, and rec. hall areas
- Repair the Amache High School sign
- Set the old Newman’s Drug Store building for Saturday evening dinner

Lunchtime included having lunch at the Granada High School with John Hopper and some of the high school teachers while everyone shared ideas about volunteering around the area. This served as a great scouting trip for the pre-pilgrimage volunteer day and Saturday evening dinner planning. The drive back to Denver included a side trip to the Sand Creek Massacre Site, inspired by a History Colorado meeting with Sand Creek representatives. Collaboration and building relationships between the Amache and Sand Creek communities is an important objective we hope to take next steps to achieve.

HISTORY COLORADO AWARDS AMACHE GROUPS

The Amache Alliance was invited to an April 19th award presentation at History Colorado in Denver. The Alliance was part of a team named to receive the History Colorado Board of Directors Award for site stewardship and preservation of the Granada Relocation Center.

The Stephen H. Hart Awards celebrates and recognizes exemplary projects in archaeology and historic preservation across the state. Each project contributes to the field of preservation because of their innovative approaches, in-depth research, and/or use of proper techniques that honor the historic significance and craftsmanship of Colorado's archaeological and built environment.

Since 1986, History Colorado has recognized the State's first Preservation Officer, Stephen H. Hart. Mr. Hart was a trailblazer in the field of law and how it could influence preservation in Colorado. Without Stephen Hart's dedication to Colorado's history, many sites would not be here today.

Also present at the History Colorado Center were Sand Creek Massacre descendants and members of the Sand Creek Massacre Foundation nonprofit group. Sand Creek National Historic Site is only 50 minutes north of Amache. Together we were able to discuss collaboration between our communities and they were invited to attend the Amache Pilgrimage. History Colorado employees were also invited to the pilgrimage. They provided tremendous help on volunteer day and during pilgrimage tours. History Colorado is a wonderful organization which has been involved in all the major construction projects on site and whose continued support of Amache is greatly appreciated. # THE AMACHE PILGRIMAGE 2023

The Amache Pilgrimage is held each year on the Saturday before Memorial Day Weekend. It is a day to remember those of Japanese descent who spent more than three years detained on the plains of southern Colorado during World War II. This year the core pilgrimage was on May 20th with a weekend full of events starting Friday afternoon.

The core pilgrimage followed the format of the past, which started in 1975, organized by Denver community members, Marge Taniwaki and Russell Endo. A remembrance memorial was held at the Amache Cemetery at 11am, followed by attendees arriving at the Granada High School. A potluck luncheon was held at the high school and had over 270 attendees that included some very special guests:

- Dale and Bobbie Hamilton, with their 9-year-old daughter Nya. They are descendants of Cheyenne and Arapaho victims of the 1864 Sand Creek massacre, where Amache Ochinee Prower's father was also killed.
- Daughters of Marion Konishi Takahara, who was the 1944 high school valedictorian
- Many first-time Amache survivors and descendant families
- Leadership from the key supporting organizations

This year, because of increased interest in Amache due to the publicity surrounding its national historic site designation, additional events were added to the pilgrimage. Several organizations including the Amache Alliance, National Park Conservation Assoc., Colorado Preservation Inc., and the University of Denver Amache Project provided opportunities to learn more about the Amache site and its community. Friday morning started off with about 25 volunteers helping to prepare for the pilgrimage weekend events. It was more like a social event of friends gathering to support APS and the town. Plenty of laughs and memories to go around, along with plenty of dust (just like our relatives had to deal with at Pilgrimage attendees enjoy lunch at Shorty's Cafe in Granada.

Amache). John Hopper and Jon Esquibel of Shorty's restaurant were very happy with the volunteers.

After a great lunch at Shorty's Café, about 70 visitors arrived for an archaeology tour of a few selected sites around Amache. The tours, led by Dr. Bonnie Clark, Dr. April Kamp-Whittaker and their DU Field School team, had to be greatly adjusted at the last minute due to the heavy rain the night before but still offered a great experience! Even more people learn about archaeology at Amache.

Saturday's guided barracks tours, small group discussions, and community dinner inspired many compliments and together created an atmosphere that allowed for emotional and meaningful connections and experiences. We are so grateful to the Amache community for being open and accepting to all visitors and making everyone's experience richer. Many of us made several new friends that have further strengthened our community. After the barracks tour, some of us snuck over to check on the Amache rose, hoping to be lucky enough to see it in bloom as we did last year. The rose bush must know that it is pilgrimage season. It had three buds that had just started blooming. Just amazing.

On Sunday, over 60 Amache descendants and community members continued engaging in the weekend's themes of shared identity, understanding, and respect by visiting the Sand Creek Massacre Site. We have thought a lot about how we might help spread the stories of both the Sand Creek and Amache communities through stories, understanding common generational hardships, and the power of place, taking advantage of how both historical landscapes are so geographically close to each other.

Several Amache pilgrims and future attendees have already asked about visiting the Sand Creek Massacre National Historic Site next year too.

showed up for the evening program at the Granada Community Center. The presentation summarized the DU Amache Field School's many years doing archaeology and building relationships with the community while working and living at Amache and Granada. The feedback from the audience was very positive and attendees were happy to specifically

AMACHE AWARDED TWO GRANTS

NPS JAPANESE AMERICAN CONFINEMENT SITES (JACS) GRANT

Colorado Preservation, Inc. (CPI) was awarded a Japanese American Confinement Sites (JACS) grant to develop and install permanent interpretive exhibits in the interior of the restored/reconstructed Recreation Hall at Block 11-F. This project will be guided by a previously completed Recreation Hall Exhibit Concept Plan. This plan has outlined interpretive themes, elements, and a spatial layout of objects and materials for the building which follow the broader interpretive themes recently established by the Amache Foundation Document. One portion of the exhibit will portray a block manager's office, and the other portion will interpret the preschool and address the overall themes of community, strength, and the resilience of Amache incarcerated during incarceration. Amache is lucky to have an active community of survivors whose memories and stories will be crucial to the development of exhibit text, images, and themes.

2023 ASSOCIATION OF PRINT SCHOLARS COLLABORATION GRANT

AMACHE SILK SCREEN SHOP

The Association of Print Scholars Collaboration Grant funds public programs and projects that foster collaboration between members of the print community and/or encourage dialogue between the print community and the general public.

Art Historian at the College of the Holy Cross, Melissa Geisler Trafton, was awarded a $1,000 collaboration grant to create a website dedicated to the Amache Silks Screen Shop. With assistance from Amache Alliance Board members Melissa will build a site that showcases a digital gallery of silk screen products created at the Amache Silk Screen Shop.

Initially established to print training posters for the US Navy, the Amache Silk Screen Shop also printed a huge variety of objects for use within camp such as greeting cards, dance invitations, calendars, programs, posters, and pamphlets. Many of these prints still exist at the Amache Museum, in personal collections, or in other repositories. The website created by this grant will begin to create a digital gallery of these silk screen objects, allowing them to be shared and appreciated as works of art and creativity while also giving us a glimpse into everyday life at Amache through the colors and designs of silk screens.

CPI VOLUNTEERS BUILD!

As a part of the Colorado Preservation, Inc. (CPI) annual conference, an interpretive furniture building workshop was offered. This educational workshop engaged a small group of volunteers in the fabrication of wood furniture pieces, representative of those created by incarcerated individuals at Amache. The pieces created by the volunteers will be used as part of an interactive exhibit inside the reconstructed barrack, allowing visitors to experience the realities of the cramped barrack conditions. The volunteer workshop provided in-kind support for the Barrack Interior Interpretation project funded in part by a Japanese American Confinement Sites (JACS) Grant from the National Park Service (NPS). The workshop was organized by Jane Daniels while fabrication was led by John Hopper, Amache Preservation Society, and Barbara Darden, Scheuber+Darden Architects. The hands-on workshop was held at Granada High School's woodworking shop. Not only did the volunteers create great pieces of furniture but new friendships, connections, and memories were also made!

Volunteers construct furniture for the Amache barrack.

THANK YOU!

KARA MIYAGISHIMA

This June marked the end of Kara Miyagishima's special assignment as the Interim Superintendent of Amache where she started coordinating efforts to prepare Amache for transition to the National Park Service. She still maintains her role as the program manager of the National Park Service Japanese American Confinement Sites Grant Program.

The Amache Alliance wants to thank Kara for all her time and dedication in coordinating with us, the larger NPS transition team, and Amache stakeholders to lay the foundation for bringing Amache into the national park system. Kara first began working with the NPS in 2005 and has been involved in preserving Amache's history for over 17 years! Her goals are to ensure that Amache survivors and descendants, in conjunction with the Amache Preservation Society, are an active part of the site's preservation and education.

Kara's notice to us said "It has been an honor to serve in this capacity and I look forward to seeing how everything moves forward under the leadership of the new Amache NHS Superintendent, Chris Mather. I am sure we will keep in touch and I look forward to working with you again in the future."

We do too, Kara. THANK YOU!

REMEMBERING MIN TONAI

The Amache Alliance Board of Directors reflect on the passing of Minoru “Min” Tonai. A community hero and an advocate of ensuring that the Japanese American experience is remembered, Min’s passion for advocacy was shaped by his life experiences.

Min was born on February 6, 1929, on San Pedro’s Terminal Island. He would attend the Buddhist Church on Terminal Island and Japanese school in Compton. After the outbreak of WWII and the arrest of his father, he was incarcerated at the Santa Anita Assembly Center in California and the Granada War Relocation Center (Amache) in Colorado. He went on to serve in the U.S. Army during the Korean War.

Min was active with organizations that promoted the remembrance of Terminal Island, the World War II incarceration of Japanese Americans, and the service of Korean War veterans. In 1975, Min would start the nonprofit, Amache Historical Society, which planned many of the Amache reunions and supported the Granada High School’s Amache Preservation Society in Colorado. He encouraged the younger generation to start the Amache Historical Society II in order to continue to share Amache stories. This led to the formal creation of the Amache Alliance nonprofit which incorporated the preservation and education mission of its predecessor groups. Min served as one of our Special Advisors, working towards the Amache National Historic Site designation and educational programs.

Min helped lay the foundation for us to build on. We will continue to honor his legacy by working with the National Park Service and Amache Preservation Society to preserve the Amache National Historic Site. He was dearly loved by all of us and we will miss him greatly.

UNIVERSITY OF DENVER FIELD SCHOOL, 2024

The Amache Archaeology Project is getting ready for its 8th field season at the site and museum, from June 17 – July 13, 2024. This summer we will be researching three barracks blocks: 6F, 7F, and 8E. If you, your family, or someone you know lived in one of these blocks please reach out! We are always looking for photographs, memories, or any information that can help us tell the story of these blocks and their residents.

VISITORS TRY THEIR HAND AT SCREENING ARTIFACTS

Our Community Open house, which will be held July 4-5, is a great way to learn about our research and connect with other Amacheans. A link to reserve your spot will be available in the spring at amache.org. We are currently accepting applications for our Descendant Internship Program which funds a high school student to attend the field school for all 4 weeks.

Adult volunteers are also welcome! Individuals interested in working for a week in the museum, helping with archaeological work, or acting as community interpreters play an important role in the project. If you are interested in learning more about any of these opportunities, or have information about Blocks 6F, 7F, or 8E please contact us at duamache@gmail.com.
