The Arkansas Gazette

In 1819 a young printer from New York named William Woodruff came to Arkansas post to start a newspaper. He brought his printing press and equipment upriver on a small raft made by lashing two wooden dugout canoes together. This type of raft was called a bateau. He worked and lived in a two room log cabin. On November 20, 1819 the first issue of the Arkansas Gazette was printed in that cabin

Quapaw Word Hunt

Find the words that are underlined in the story below. The words can be found across, down or diagonally.

The Quapaw Indians lived along the banks of the Arkansas River long before the French explorers founded Arkansas Post in 1686. They built homes of long cane poles that were covered with cane mats and cypress bark. They lived in four main villages along the Arkansas and Mississippi Rivers. The Quapaw hunted animals such as bear, beaver, and deer for food and clothing. They made canoes called dugouts from cypress and pine logs with stone tools. Their clothing was made from animal skins and they often wore beads and feathers in their hair. The Quapaw had many special dances like the calumet dance given to welcome visitors into the tribe. A calumet is a two-foot long pipe made of a hollow reed attached to a red clay bowl. Like many other Indian tribes, the Quapaw were forced to move from the Arkansas to the Indian Territory in what is now Oklahoma.
