Aisne-Marne American Cemetery and Memorial

The Aisne Marne American Cemetery lies below the hill containing Belleau Wood, the scene of fierce combat where many of those buried in the cemetery lost their lives. The government of France granted use of this land, in perpetuity, as a permanent burial ground without charge or taxation.

American Battle Monuments Commission

This agency of the United States government operates and maintains 25 American cemeteries and 29 memorials, monuments and markers in 16 countries. The Commission works to fulfill the vision of its first chairman, General of the Armies John J. Pershing. Pershing, commander of the American Expeditionary Forces during World War I, promised that "time will not dim the glory of their deeds."

AISNE-MARNE AND OISE-AISNE OFFENSIVES
MAY 31 – SEPTEMBER 16, 1918

When the United States entered World War I in April 1917, the Allies and Germans all doubted the fighting capability of the Americans. German offensives on the Western Front in spring 1918 sought to win the war before American units became operational.

MAY 27, 1918: German forces broke through French lines at the "Chemin des Dames." Within three days they reached Belleau Wood and the Marne River in Château-Thierry. Without reserves, France called on the American Expeditionary Forces.

MAY 30: U.S. 3rd Division arrived in Château-Thierry, blocking German forces on the north bank of the Marne throughout June.

EARLY JUNE: U.S. 2nd Division, including its 4th Marine Brigade, replaced French units in the Belleau area.

JUNE 6: Marines led the 2nd Division into Belleau Wood to clear out German units. The battle lasted 20 days and became an enduring symbol for the Marine Corps. American forces proved themselves, stirring Allied hopes to win the war.

JULY 15: German forces tried again to pierce Allied lines by crossing the Marne River east of Château-Thierry. The 3rd Division blocked them, and was nicknamed "Rock of the Marne" by the French Army.

JULY 18: The Allies began the Aisne-Marne Offensive. By August 6, the German salient was eliminated and Allied forces reached the banks of the Vesle River. Ten American Divisions (310,000 men) participated in this offensive.

General John J. Pershing led the American Expeditionary Forces to successes in the St. Mihiel and Meuse-Argonne campaigns and to the Armistice on November 11, 1918.

Carvings

Decorative embellishments are carved on the chapel. Some depict scenes of trenches. Others reproduce shoulder patches of the American divisions that fought during the Aisne-Marne offensive.

Former Hunting Lodge

This former hunting lodge stands on the hill behind the chapel. It was a strategic place during the battle of Belleau Wood.

The Chapel

This Romanesque style memorial has been erected on front lines occupied by the 2nd Division during the campaign.

Wall of Missing

Names of 1,060 American soldiers missing in the area appear on the walls of the chapel. Four who were recovered are recognized by the little rosette added near their names.

The Graves

2,289 headstones, separated into grave areas A and B, follow the curve of the hill where the battle of Belleau Wood took place.

The Plantings

328 plane trees and nearly 4,000 rosebushes border the graves areas and the main alley.

Layout

From the north entrance, enter the main alley to park near the visitor building on your right. From there, walking south will lead you to the chapel and the two grave plots.
