Photos of the Week

The first fee free day of the year at Wright Brothers National Memorial is next Monday, Jan. 16.

The National Park Service will celebrate later this year the 200th anniversary of the Ocracoke Light station. Photo taken on May 29, 1941.

Marker inside Fort Raleigh National Historic Site's Waterside Theatre indicates where President Franklin D. Roosevelt watched the 23rd performance of The Lost Colony outdoor drama, performed on the 350th anniversary of Virginia Dare's birth. Prior to the special performance, President Roosevelt delivered a national address.

- In the coming weeks, Cape Hatteras National Seashore will announce its preliminary plans for celebrating the 200th anniversary of the Ocracoke Light Station.
- Fort Raleigh National Historic Site is hosting a paid internship through the Latino Heritage Internship Program this summer to help reveal the underrepresented history of the African American Freedmen's Colony built on Roanoke Island during the American Civil War. For more info, visit the Interpretive Design internship announcement.
- Cape Hatteras National Seashore's Cape Point and Frisco campgrounds open Friday, April 7. Campgrounds at Oregon Inlet and Ocracoke are open year-round. Reservations and payments for camp sites must be made online at www.recreation.gov.
- Attention Teachers: Did you know you can bring your students to Cape Hatteras National Seashore, Fort Raleigh National Historic Site and Wright Brothers National Memorial, for free? Funding is available to reimburse transportation costs, and rangers are eager to provide curriculum-based programs to your classes. Contact scott\_babinowich@nps.gov for more information.
- The National Park Service has several government contracts for businesses to bid on at Cape Hatteras National Seashore and Fort Raleigh National Historic Site. [\[News Release\]](#)
