COPYRIGHT AND RESTRICTIONS

The copyright law of the United States (Title 17, United States Code) governs the making of photocopies or other reproductions of copyrighted materials. The various state privacy acts govern the use of materials that document private individuals, groups, and corporations.

Under certain conditions specified in the law, libraries and archives are authorized to furnish a reproduction if the document does not infringe the privacy rights of an individual, group, or corporation. These specified conditions of authorized use include:

- non-commercial and non-profit study, scholarship, or research, or teaching
- criticism, commentary, or news reporting
- as a NPS preservation or security copy
- as a research copy for deposit in another institution

If a user later uses a copy or reproduction for purposes in excess of "fair use," the user may be personally liable for copyright, privacy, or publicity infringement. This institution's permission to obtain a photographic, xerographic, digital, or other copy of a document doesn't indicate permission to publish, exhibit, perform, reproduce, sell, distribute, or prepare derivative works from this document without first obtaining permission from the copyright holder and from any private individual, group, or corporation shown or otherwise recorded.

Permission to publish, exhibit, perform, reproduce, prepare derivative works from, sell, or otherwise distribute the item must be obtained by the user separately in writing from the holder of the original copyright (or if the creator is dead from his/her heirs) as well as from any individual(s), groups, or corporations whose name, image, recorded words, or private information (e.g., employment information) may be reproduced in the source material. The holder of the original copyright isn't necessarily the National Park Service. The National Park Service is not legally liable for copyright, privacy, or publicity infringement when materials are wrongfully used after being provided to researchers for "fair use."

This institution reserves the right to refuse to accept a copying order if fulfillment of the order is judged in violation of copyright or federal or state privacy or publicity law.

OF PLATT NATIONAL PARK*Catalog No CHIC 2558Accession No CHIC-00084Inclusive Dates 1901-1981Bulk Dates 1960-1976History

In an effort to preserve and maintain the springs in the city of Sulphur Springs, Oklahoma, members of the Chickasaw and Choctaw tribes met with the United State government in March 1902. Members of these two tribes agreed to cede land to the government and in an act of congress Sulphur Springs Reservation, a 640-acre tract that protected the land's known natural springs, was created. In 1906 another act of congress officially changed the Reservation's name from Sulphur Springs Reservation to Platt National Park. The name change honored Connecticut Senator Orville Hitchcock Platt, a member of the Committee and Indian Affairs, who contributed much to the cause of Indians. To fully acknowledge visitors' interest in the park and the park's expanding features, Platt National Park became Chickasaw National Recreation Area in the 1970s.

This collection contains documents relating to resource management records of Platt National Park through its name change in 1976 to Chickasaw National Recreation Area.

Scope

This collection contains the resource management records of Platt National Park from 1901 until 1976 when it became Chickasaw National Recreation Area. Included in this collection are correspondence, memorandums, notes, reports, manuscripts, and photographs relating to the management of the park.
