Six Americas Update: Trending Toward Concern

The Yale Program on Climate Change Communication has released the newest update of their Global Warming's Six Americas study. From the update:

" Our latest survey in December 2018 finds that the Alarmed segment is at an all-time high (29%) - which is double that segment's size in 2013 and an 8-point increase since March 2018. Conversely, the Dismissive (9%) and Doubtful (9%) segments have both decreased over the last five years. The percentage of Americans in these two segments has declined by 12 points since 2013."
