CHECK-LIST OF BIRDS DEATH VALLEY NATIONAL MONUMENT INYO COUNTY, CALIFORNIA

Compiled by Ranger Naturalist Roland H. Wauer

Price 10 cents

This list comprises those birds seen throughout the 3,000 square miles of Death Valley National Monument. Habitat varies from the extreme desert of the lower sonoran life zone found on the valley floor, to the sub-alpine conditions found on the highest peak of the mountains surrounding the valley. Elevations range from —282 feet (below sea level) near Badwater, to 11,049 feet, the summit of Telescope Peak.

The names used are those in the fifth edition of the Checklist of North American Birds, published by the American Ornithologists Union. Subspecific names have not been used because of the extreme difficulty of recognizing subspecies in the field.

ABBREVIATIONS:

- A-Abundant: greatest relative numbers.
- acc.—Accidental: not recorded more than a few times, but more than once.
- aer .- Aerial: observed in flight over any habitat.
- C-Common: next below abundant in relative numbers.
- F-Fairly common: next below common in relative numbers.
- M-Migrant: usually observed in spring and/or fall.
- Mt-Mountains: seen in the higher portions of the monument, above 3,000 feet.
- P-Permanent resident: the species, but not necessarily the individual, remains all year around.
- R—Rare: lowest relative numbers, but still regular in occurrence.
- S-Summer visitant: arriving as early as February and may remain as late as October.
- spor-Sporadic: some years present and some years absent.
- so-Single occurrence: Species collected but single occurrences by sight record only are recorded in list 2.
- U-Uncommon: next above rare in relative numbers.
- W-Winter visitant: may arrive as early as August and may remain as late as May.
