The National Park Service cares for the special places saved by the American people so that all may experience our heritage.

Fees and Passes

Delaware Water Gap National Recreation Area collects an Expanded Amenity Fee in season at Milford Beach, Dingmans Access, Bushkill Access, and Smithfield Beach in Pennsylvania, and at Turtle Beach and Watergate Recreation Site in New Jersey. Fees are used to enhance visitor services, to maintain and repair park facilities, and to manage cultural and natural resources.

2013 Expanded Amenity Fee Schedule

Private vehicle	$7.00 weekdays
(1-7 occupants)	$10.00 weekends/holidays
Private vehicle	$1.00 per person
(8+ occupants)
Pedestrian/bike	$1.00 person/day
Year Walk-in Pass	$10.00 person/year
Seasonal Park Pass	$45.00 vehicle/year

Seasonal Park Passes are available at Park Headquarters and at Dingmans Falls Visitor Center (see pages 4 & 5).

Because this park does not collect an entrance fee, the America the Beautiful (ATB) Annual Pass and ATB Annual Pass for Active Military are not accepted. Holders of the ATB Senior or ATB Access Pass do receive a 50% discount on the Expanded Amenity Fee.

“Having a Swell Time”

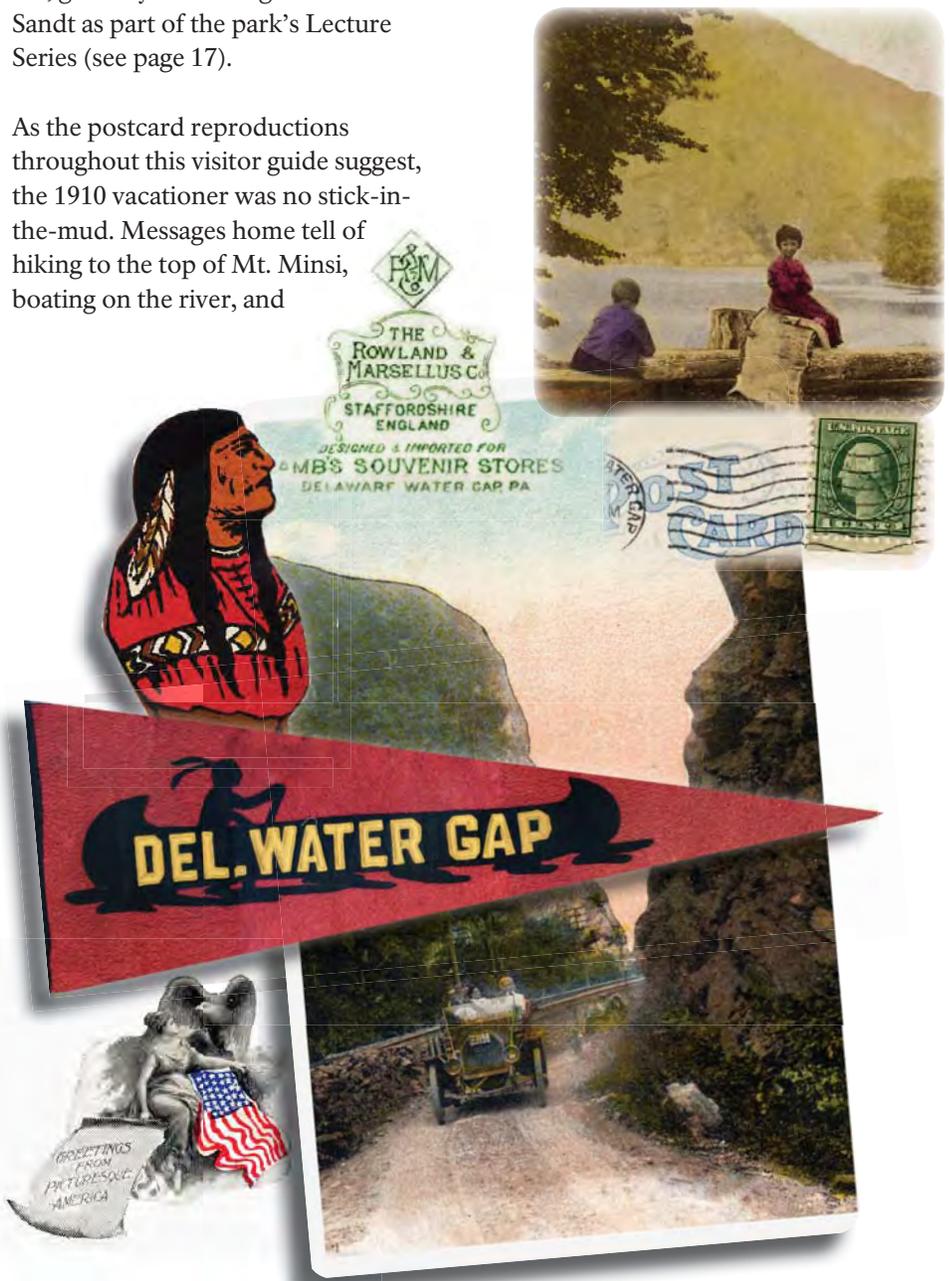

The Delaware Water Gap has been a vacation destination for more than a century. This summer, memorabilia from the area's resort era will be on display at park headquarters (see page 4). “Having a Swell Time: Vacationing at the Water Gap a Century Ago” will be in place until October 1, 2013.

The exhibition kicked off last September with a well-attended talk on postcards from the resort era and the stories they tell, given by Park Ranger Kathleen Sandt as part of the park's Lecture Series (see page 17).

As the postcard reproductions throughout this visitor guide suggest, the 1910 vacationer was no stick-in-the-mud. Messages home tell of hiking to the top of Mt. Minsi, boating on the river, and touring the countryside by trolley, ferry, and automobile. Vacationers brought home silver and china, and they saved postcards, stereographs, prints, and paintings. Samples of all are on display at Headquarters, loaned to the park by Ranger Sandt.

Come read what the 1910 vacationers wrote, see what they bought, and get a glimpse of their Water Gap vacations a century ago.

Be a Junior Ranger

What's in the woods? What should I wear on the river? A Junior Ranger knows! Children can earn "Junior Park Ranger" and "Junior Ranger - Water Safety" badges by completing activity books available at all visitor centers or on the park's website at www.nps.gov/dewa.

Let's start exploring the park! Find the words in bold in the puzzle below.

Delaware Water Gap National Recreation Area is a place to explore! You can hike to the top of Mt. Tammany, canoe on the river, bike on McDade Trail, see lots of waterfalls, swim at a river beach, and so much more! You can also learn how people lived and about the things they made at Millbrook Village. Stop by a visitor center to get a map and find out more about the things to see and do in the park. Ask how you can be a Junior Ranger! (solution on page 19).

In and On

Swim

Wading in heavy stockings and dresses as they did in the early 1900s doesn't seem like beach fun now, but even in today's water-smart swimsuits, we ask that you swim only at the designated swimming beaches.

Swim Safe!

Always wear a lifejacket when swimming. Wear water shoes or old sneakers, especially at Turtle Beach.

Swimming outside of lifeguarded beaches is discouraged. It is unsafe due to strong currents, sharp drop-offs, and changing river conditions.

Never try to swim across the river.

Swimming and wading are NOT allowed within 50 feet of a boat or canoe launch, or at the top of any waterfall in the park.

Never swim alone.

Many drownings involve the use of alcohol. Never drink alcohol and then swim.

the Water

Paddle

The Delaware River within this park is mostly flat and calm, perfect for family outings and for the canoeist and kayaker of any skill level.

Local liveries rent canoes, kayaks, tubes, and rafts, and provide transportation to and from launches. A list of liveries licensed to operate in the park is available at visitor centers, at www.nps.gov/dewa, or by calling park headquarters at 570 426-2452. Also ask for the park's "River Map and Guide." This material has important regulations and safety advice for day paddlers and those over-nighting on the river (see page 15).

Paddle Safe!

Always wear a lifejacket when on the river.

If you fall in the water:

- Stay with your boat. Even a swamped boat can support you. Keep upstream of your boat to avoid being pinned against a rock or obstacle.
- If you lose your boat, float on your back with your feet pointed downstream.
- Hang on to your paddle; use it as a rudder or to push away from rocks.
- Don't stand in rapids. Your feet and legs can get trapped; the current can pull you under.
- Save people first. Retrieve equipment only if it can be done safely.

Fish

Tackle may have changed since 1910, but a fisherman still hopes to catch the big one. Fishing is permitted in the river and in streams in most of the park, with appropriate state licenses and in accordance with state regulations and other park-specific regulations. For more information, ask for the park's Fishing & Boating bulletin, or visit www.nps.gov/dewa. Fish-for-free Day in Pennsylvania (no license required) is July 4.

Hiking the Ridges

More than 100 miles of trails and roadways run through the park, including more than 25 miles of the Appalachian Trail along the “Endless Mountain”— Kittatinny Ridge. In Pennsylvania, blazed trail systems at PEEC and Cliff Park offer good family hiking and a variety of waterfalls, vistas, and forest habitats. Stop by a visitor center (see pages 4 and 5) for information and trail maps, or look for them on line at www.nps.gov/dewa.

Hiking the Gap

Take on Mt. Minsi or Mt. Tammany, twin gateposts of the Water Gap, 1000 feet above the the river. Or trek to Sunfish Pond, whose pristine beauty sparked a nation-wide campaign to save it from becoming a reservoir. Even a half-mile stroll to Lake Lenape and back gives an idea of what attracted the intrepid hikers of 1910.

Trail	Trailhead/Parking	Round Trip (miles/km)	Climb (ft/m)	Difficulty/Description
Mt. Tammany, New Jersey
Mt. Tammany Loop (Red Dots/Blue blaze)	Dunnfield Trailhead, Worthington State Forest (See below)	4 miles/6.4 km loop	1,250 ft/380 m	Difficult. Steep with some scramble over a boulder field. View into Gap from top. This is the park's most challenging hike.
Sunfish Pond/AT (Appalachian Trail) (White blaze)	Dunnfield Trailhead, Worthington State Forest (See below)	7.4 miles/12 km Loop around pond: 1.5 miles/2.4 k	700 ft/215 m	Difficult. Very popular summer hike to a glacial lake atop Worthington State Forest. Loop clockwise around the pond via the rocky AT northeast, the short hilly Turquoise Trail south, and the flat, grassy Sunfish Fire Road west.

DIRECTIONS to Dunnfield Trailhead, Worthington State Forest GPS 40.97182 -75.12338

Westbound: Take I-80 Dunnfield Exit at NJ mile 1.5 and continue to the sign for Dunnfield parking on right.

Eastbound: Take first I-80 exit ramp in NJ after toll on Delaware River. Bear left; follow signs for I-80 West under I-80 to the sign for Dunnfield parking on right.

Mt. Minsi, Pennsylvania
Mt. Minsi Loop via AT/Minsi Fire Road (White blaze)	Mt. Minsi/Lake Lenape on Mountain Road GPS 40.97975 -75.14219	4 miles/6.4 km loop	1,200 ft/365 m	Moderate to Difficult. Fine view of Gap from a short spur left from the AT; vista of Tammany from Minsi's top. Quieter, easier than Tammany's trails.

Snakes and Sense

The park is home to two species of venomous snakes. Timber rattlesnakes are found in high rocky ridges along the Appalachian Trail and in low areas along the river. Copperheads make their dens near streams, ponds, and bogs. Venomous snake bites are painful but need not be fatal.

- Be alert when in snake habitat.
- Stay on trails. Keep your dog leashed.
- When scrambling, don't poke your hands and feet into places you can't see.
- If bitten, stay calm. Send for help.

Hike Safe!

Be prepared for your hike.

- Wear sturdy shoes or hiking boots.
- Don't forget water and snacks.
- Wear a hat, sunglasses, sunscreen, and insect repellent as needed.
- Plan to be out of ravines before sunset.
- Field guides, maps, and binoculars can enrich your hike.

Tick Talk

A high percentage of ticks in the park carry Lyme Disease and other serious illnesses that can go undiagnosed if the affected person is not alert to their causes and symptoms.

- Wear light-colored clothing while hiking in order to spot ticks more easily.
- Wear trousers, not shorts, and tuck trouser legs into socks.
- Use insect repellent.
- Check for ticks after you hike or bike.
- Remove ticks that you find attached to you. Save the tick; seek medical advice.

GPS 41.23733 -74.91916

HOURS

Dawn to dusk

DESCRIPTION

This is a trash-free area. Please carry out what you carry in.

An accessible trail leads to Factory Falls overlook, and stairs lead to two other falls in a shady hemlock ravine. Grounds and trails of this former state park have been newly rehabilitated in keeping with their historical appearance.

FACILITIES

- Three waterfalls
- Accessible parking, restrooms and picnic area
- Trail from parking area to picnic area and to Factory Falls overlook is accessible.
- South end of the trail has steep staircases.

Stay Safe!

Slips and tumbles around waterfalls have been the cause of severe injuries and subsequent drowning.

- Stay on the trail.
- Do not climb on the rocks around waterfalls and streams.
- Do not swim near the top of any waterfall. Even at low water, fast currents are strong enough to pull you over the edge of the falls.

Swimming is not permitted at Childs Park or Dingmans Falls, PA or at Van Campens Glen, NJ.

HOURS

Dawn to dusk

DESCRIPTION

This is a trash-free area. Please carry out what you carry in.

The falls are just across the road from the parking area. Buttermilk Falls Trail starts with a staircase alongside the falls and is a gateway to challenging, rewarding hiking along the Appalachian Trail.

FACILITIES

- 75-foot roadside waterfall
- Staircase to top of falls
- Spur trail to the Appalachian Trail
- No restrooms or drinking water

CAUTION

Do not follow signs for alternate routes to the falls at mile 3.2 and mile 8 on NPS 615 unless you have a high-clearance vehicle.

DIRECTIONS

From NPS 615 turn east (right if northbound) at mile 6.5 down paved Main Street in the village of Walpack Center for 1.6 miles, crossing a one-lane bridge over Flat Brook. At the next intersection, turn right (south) onto Mountain Road. This dirt road has potholes and loose surface, but is passable for sedans at a cautious speed. Continue 2.0 miles to parking area on right.

Touring Old Mine Road

It was a new type of adventure — piling into the “horseless carriage” and heading out into the countryside.

By 1910, western New Jersey was a landscape of farms and villages strung along bumpy north-south roads tucked between the ridges. A handful of hotels, like the Karamac (a favorite with the young set) and several farmhouses-turned-guesthouses welcomed the new “automobilists” who ferried with their cars over from Delaware Water Gap and the Pennsylvania side.

Today, a “windshield tour” of the New Jersey side of the park still retains much of the pleasure and flavor of 100 years ago. Though forest has grown back over many of the farm fields, the remaining villages still retain their 19th century character and scale, and the grandeur of river, ridge, and waterfall is the same as it was in 1910.

A 260-year-old roadway named for the mines at Pahaquarry, Old Mine Road forms most of the park’s main route through New Jersey. At Fort Carmer and Van Campen Inn, at the Van Campen Farms, and at Hamilton Ridge Trail near Millbrook, you can still walk on the original road bed once traipsed by Dutch farmers, colonial Americans, and soldiers of the French & Indian and Revolutionary Wars.

Landmarks of the resort era also remain: Mountain Side House (Coppermine Inn) at Turtle Beach, Delaware View House at Wallpack Bend, and Hotel Ferncliff in the center of Bevans, now called Peters Valley.

As the 20th century wore on, more and more people came to own cars, and they took their vacations on the road, travelling farther from home and stopping off for shorter stays. Car trunks replaced steamer trunks, and the proximity of the Water Gap to big cities and rail lines was no longer all-important. The golden era of long summers at the Water Gap drew to a close and Old Mine Road was left to its residents and to the tourists of another day.

Biking the Road

Cyclists of 1910 sometimes rolled down the 50-mile path from Port Jervis, NY, north of the park all the way to Delaware Water Gap at the south end of the park. Today road bikers can enjoy a loop of up to 50 miles of paved biking with little traffic and exceptional rural scenery by following historic Old Mine Road and Rt. NPS 615 through New Jersey.

Biking north to south ("downstream") is considered easier. You can use NPS 615 and Old Mine Road as a loop, but there is a steep climb over Walpack Ridge in either direction on Pompey Ridge Road. Southbound there are steep hills from Rt. 560 to Peters Valley, on Rt. NPS 615 just south of Pompey Ridge Road, and south from Flat Brook past Walpack Bend to Hamilton Ridge Trail.

Visiting Van Campen Inn or Buttermilk Falls would each require biking on dirt roads for up to 2.5 miles each way. Gated roads are not open to bicycles; only roads open to cars are open to bikes. For a long and safe mountain bike trip, explore McDade Trail on the Pennsylvania side of the park (see page 14).

Bike Safe!

Biking between Interstate 80 at NJ Exit 1 and Douglas Trail parking at the north end of Worthington State Forest (about 5 miles) is not recommended due to increased summer traffic and a one-lane section of road near the state forest campground. Douglas Trail parking at mile 4 in Worthington State Forest and Coppermine Trailhead at mile 7.7 on Old Mine Road are each a good southern terminus.

- Always wear a proper-fitting helmet.
- Bring (and drink) water.
- Carry a spare tire and tube.
- Watch for potholes and for soft, narrow shoulders.
- Secure your bike and equipment when stopping.

Bridges

- Dismount and WALK across the I-80 bridge on the pedestrian walkway on the downstream side.
- Dismount and WALK across the US 206 bridge on the pedestrian walkway on the upstream side.
- RIDE carefully across Dingmans Bridge along with traffic (10 m.p.h. speed limit). Biking is not recommended on Rt. 739, US 209, or River Road in Pennsylvania.

For historic views along Old Mine Road, see the back cover. Find out more about Old Mine Road on the park's website at www.nps.gov/dewa.

McDade Trail

McDade Recreational Trail runs through the valley for 32 miles with trailheads every half-mile to 5 miles — a year-round invitation to explore the river valley. Biking speed limit is 15 m.p.h. and bikers must yield to hikers.

Motorized vehicles are not allowed on McDade Trail. Pets are welcome on a 6-foot leash, but are not permitted to stay at beaches in summer; see below for special restrictions in summer near Smithfield Beach.

SUGGESTED TRIPS	Trailhead/Parking	Round trip (miles/km)	Difficulty/Description

Views of Raymondskill Cliff McDade miles 28.7-31.0	Pittman Orchard north to Milford Beach (no trailheads in between) Fee to park or stay at Milford (see page 2).	4.6 miles/7.4 km	Fine views of the cliffs 500 ft above the valley floor; wildflowers and butterflies in unused fields; passage under Milford-Montague bridge. Side trip: north bank of the Raymondskill (no trail bridge) is 0.5 miles south of Pittman. Restrooms at Milford Beach.

* History notes for McDade Trail are available at www.nps.gov/dewa.

➡ No need to double back to your car! For trailheads from Hialeah to Dingmans Campground, you can ride the "Pony" one-way (page 17).

Camp/Backpack

Revival camps, boy scout camps, church summer camps — visitors have spent thousands of overnights here close to nature. Today there are campgrounds and riverside group campsites in the park.

For overnight canoe and kayak trips, primitive river campsites are available first come first served; paddlers must travel a minimum distance to qualify for these campsites. Consult the park's River Map and Guide for suggested itineraries.

Camping along the Appalachian Trail (AT) is permitted only for backpackers on extended trips. A list of regulations and map of the AT within the park are available at visitor centers, or visit www.nps.gov/dewa.

Running seven trips a day from Delaware Water Gap to Dingmans Ferry (Access). Weekends from May 25 to September 1. Also Monday, May 27 (Memorial Day), Thursday, July 4 (Independence Day), and Monday, September 2 (Labor Day).
Schedule: www.nps.gov/dewa or www.gomcta.com/documents/2013NPS.pdf

➔ Free Bus through the Park

Trade the donkeys for a modern Pony! Monroe County Transit Authority (MCTA) will provide free bus service this summer on its “Pocono Pony” buses. The Pony will run seven times a day from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. on Saturdays, Sundays, and holidays, serving Smithfield Beach and trailheads for McDade Trail (see page 14) as far north as Dingmans Ferry (Access). Your bike, kayak, or small canoe rides along with you for free, too.

The route through the park connects with regional MCTA service throughout the Poconos and with Delaware Water Gap (DWG) Park & Ride and Martz/Trailways DWG Terminal on Rt. 611 in Smithfield Township, servicing Port Authority Bus Terminal in New York City.

The bus will not detour to PEEC or Dingmans Falls. For a schedule and route map visit MCTA’s website at www.gomcta.com/documents/2013NPS.pdf.

Your Support

The park's work is accomplished with the help of many individuals and organizations. These are just two of their contributions!

Tree Trunk to Trail Tread

As visitors return to George W. Childs Park this year they will be hiking on the handiwork of a particularly dedicated volunteer group. Two years ago, the Friday Work Group of the Millbrook Village Society embraced the daunting task of milling and recycling the trees cut in recent park projects into more than 25,000 board feet of lumber.

The rough-hewn planks produced by their portable saw mill were particularly appropriate for the restoration of Childs Park to its original appearance of 1892. Oaks salvaged from realigning Route 2001 on the park's border and black locusts from the historic allée at Grey Towers National Historic Site yielded thousands of feet of guardrail, staircase tread, and overlook platform for Childs Park. Both the time and materials contributed by the volunteer millers enabled the park to replace much more of the trail at Childs Park than project funds alone would have allowed.

The Art of a Home

The renowned metal crafter Marie Zimmermann made her home at her family's farm near Milford from 1944 until the early 1970s. The Friends of Marie Zimmermann endeavor to honor her life and work by restoring her home to the beauty it had under her discriminating artistic eye.

The interior is now open, but the work goes on! The Friends seek keepers for the grounds, green thumbs for the historic garden, and guides for tours.

Volunteers do many more jobs and help us with many more skills than those highlighted here. Want to help? Call 570 426-2417 to see where you could fit in.

Things to Know

Emergencies in the Park

Call 800 543-4295 for assistance anytime.

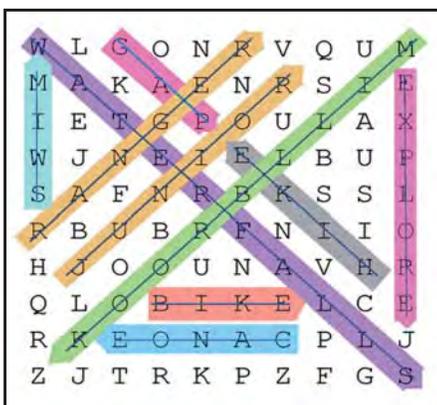

Pets

All animals must be on a 6-foot leash. Service animals are welcome throughout the park. Pets are allowed on trails in New Jersey, but not at the picnic areas at Watergate Recreation Site or Kittatinny Point. Pets are not permitted on most waterfall trails in Pennsylvania, at any beaches, or on McDade Trail near Smithfield Beach in summer. Ask at a visitor center for details of where you can take your pet, or visit www.nps.gov/dewa. Please clean up after your pet.

Picnicking

Natural and Cultural Resources

Flowers, fossils, rocks, and other natural resources all play a role in the ecosystems of the park. Federal law prohibits their removal from the park. This includes all fungi (mushrooms). Berries and nuts may be gathered by hand for personal use in limited quantities; check at a visitor center for details.

Cultural and archeological resources of the park are protected by federal law. The collecting of American Indian or historic artifacts and the use of metal detectors are prohibited.

Alcohol

Alcohol is prohibited in most parts of the park, including beaches, campgrounds/group campsites, and most sites in Pennsylvania. Visit www.nps.gov/dewa for details. Never drink and then swim.

Hunting & Firearms

Hunting is permitted in most parts of the recreation area, with appropriate state licenses and according to state and additional park-specific regulations. Ask for the park's Hunting bulletin, or visit www.nps.gov/dewa.

The possession of firearms on federally-owned land within Delaware Water Gap National Recreation Area is permissible consistent with state and federal laws. However, firearms are not permitted in park buildings.

Overnight Parking

Overnight parking is permitted only at certain trail-head and river access points and only for those on overnight hikes or overnight canoe trips. For your safety, please call 570 426-2452 with the registration of your car and the intended time of your return.

Boat Safe!

Always wear a U.S. Coast Guard-approved lifejacket while boating.

- Children less than 12 years old must wear an approved lifejacket in a vessel that is less than 20 feet long.
- In Pennsylvania water, everyone must wear a lifejacket from November 1 to April 30 if in a vessel less than 16 feet in length.

No-wake zones are enforced within 500 feet of designated swimming areas at Smithfield Beach, PA, and Turtle Beach, NJ. A limit of 10 miles per hour is enforced elsewhere on the river within the park from April 1 to September 30 yearly.

Ask for the park's Fishing & Boating bulletin at visitor centers, or visit www.nps.gov/dewa.

Bear Facts

The recreation area is home to hundreds of black bears. These animals are generally peaceful, but bears have seriously injured people who have tried to feed them.

- Don't leave food at camp or picnic sites; store it in the trunk of your car.
- Clean up all food scraps; don't leave garbage outside over-filled cans.
- Never approach a bear, even a cub.
- Leash your dog; dogs agitate bears.
- If a bear approaches, don't run. Make noise, wave your arms, and look large.
- Never feed a bear.
