Memorandum

Attn: Regional Fire Management Officers, Human Resource Specialists, and Workforce Management Chiefs

Acting Associate Director, Workforce Management

Subject: Identification of Certain Temporary Firefighters Eligible for Federal Employee Health Benefits

Per the DOI-HR memorandum dated September 17, 2012, attached, bureaus may now start notifying and enrolling certain wildland firefighters under a temporary appointment into the Federal Employees Health Benefits (FEHB) Program. Prior to enrollment, however, eligibility for the program must be determined for purposes of consistency within the DOI and to assure adequate notification to affected employees.

We realize that within the National Park Service (NPS), the most accurate certifications should come from those field staffs in fire and human resources (HR) who know the work being performed in their organizations. Such information is recorded by the supervisor on the attached "2012 Identification and Certification Form" and can be sent by the Servicing Human Resources Office (SHRO) to the Human Resources Operation Center (HROC) Benefits Branch who will then contact the employee to provide the necessary information for FEHB enrollment.

In the interest of time, we have simultaneously routed this memorandum to NPS Regional Human Resources Managers and Regional Fire Management Officers. This is for the express purpose of allowing HR and Wildland Fire staffs to identify and certify those employees who are eligible for this entitlement so they can enroll as soon as possible.

Two types of firefighting employees are eligible for FEHB;

1.) Those whose primary duties are clearly wildland fire or support of wildland fire as described in their position descriptions, OR

2.) Employees in temporary appointments who respond to wildland fire emergencies and are either “qualified” or a “trainee” in one of the listed NWCG positions. (See NWCG listing on Attachment to the September 17 DOI-HR memorandum.)
Fire Management Specialists and Fire Supervisors: For employees in your organization who meet either of the above criteria, please initiate and complete appropriate sections of the attached “2012 Identification and Certification Form” and submit one form for each employee to your SHRO as soon as possible.

Non-Fire Supervisors of Collateral Duty Firefighters: For employees under your supervision who meet either of the above criteria, please initiate and complete appropriate sections of the attached “2012 Identification and Certification Form” and submit to your SHRO as soon as possible. (See the form’s “Part II” which lists those NWCG fire positions eligible for FEHB.)

NOTE: If there are questions on which NWCG incident management qualification(s) are held by an employee, contact the fire management representative for your park area who can access the IQCS system for purposes of verification. It is important that an accurate determination be made as quickly as possible regarding the employee’s status.

SHRO Staffs and HR Specialists: If the employee is determined to be eligible for FEHB as a fire fighter under a temporary appointment, and the 2012 Identification and Certification Form is completed and signed by the supervisor and/or the certifier, please retain a copy and create an On-Trac ticket for the HROC Benefits Branch and upload the form into On-Trac for “Temp Firefighter Eligibility for FEHB.” Once the form is received by the HROC Benefits Staff, they will contact the eligible employee directly with information on how to enroll in FEHB.

Questions should be directed to Melissa Anglin, Human Resources Specialist, WASO Office of Human Resources, at 252-473-3468 or melissa_anglin@nps.gov, and/or to Mark Koontz, National Wildland Fire Operations Program Lead at 208-387-5090 or mark_koontz@nps.gov.

Memorandum

From: Thomas Mulhem
      Director – Office of Human Resources

Subject: FEHB Coverage Extended to Certain Firefighters

On July 17, 2012, the Office of Personnel Management (OPM) issued Benefits Administration Letter (BAL) 12-203 which authorizes agencies to extend Federal health benefits coverage to temporary wildland firefighter and fire protection personnel. Bureau Human Resource Offices (HRO) should now be working with their field offices to notify eligible temporary employees of their eligibility to enroll in the Federal Employee Health Benefits (FEHB) program.

The following two categories of temporary employees are deemed eligible for FEHB:

1. Employees whose primary duties are wildland fire, wildland fire support, as described in their position description. Temporary wildland firefighters and fire protection personnel are typically found in the following occupational series and positions:

   462  Forestry Technicians
   455  Range Technicians
   401  Biological Science/Specialist
   454  Rangeland Management
   2151 Dispatcher
   5201 Miscellaneous Occupation
   0081 Fire Protection and Prevention

   This list is not exclusive, nor should coverage necessarily be extended to all employees within the occupations listed above. Rather, in determining whether to extend health benefits coverage for employees, bureaus should focus on the duties performed, regardless of the position’s title, occupational series, grade level or geographic location.

2. Temporary employees who are not in primary wildland fire or fire protection positions; but respond to wildland fire emergencies and are either qualified or a trainee in one of the National Wildfire Coordinating Group Wildland Fire Qualifications System Guide (PMS 310-1) positions as documented on an Incident Qualifications Card (“Redcard”) or Incident Qualifications and Certification System (IQCS) master record. Please see the enclosed attachment for a complete listing of all eligible fire positions covered under this category.

3. OPM recognizes there may be other temporary employees who do not fall under category one or two of this memo who perform emergency response services similar to those performed by firefighting personnel. OPM has amended 5 CFR 890.102(i) to permit agencies to submit a request to the Office of Human Resources to extend FEHB coverage to such employees.
Bureaus should consider the criteria below when making a health benefits determination:

With respect to the emergency or disaster at issue, bureaus should consider:
  • The size, scope, intensity, or impact of the disaster or emergency.
  • The likelihood that the disaster or emergency may pose a threat to the public; and
  • The level of danger that the workers responding to the emergency of disaster face.

With respect to staffing challenges, bureaus should consider:
  • The number of current employees available to resolve/comb the disaster or emergency;
  • The number of additional temporary employees needed to respond to the disaster or emergency;
  • The length of time the emergency response work is needed/expected to last; and
  • Any special challenges the agency may face in recruiting a sufficient number of temporary employees to provide emergency response services.

If Bureaus make the determination that there are eligible temporary employees who do not fall into category one or two of this memo, then Bureaus shall submit their requests for approval to the Department under the signature of the Bureau Director to the Director of the Office of Human Resources, Department of the Interior. Once the Office of Human Resources reviews the request, the Office of Human Resources may forward the request to OPM for final approval.

What to include in the Request:

Bureaus should include the following information in their request to extend health benefits coverage to employees in accordance with 5 CFR 890.102(i):
  • A description of the emergency or disaster (incl. the size, scope, duration, and impact/expected impact on the public);
  • A description of the emergency response duties the employees will be expected to perform;
  • The title and occupational series of the affected positions;
  • The estimated number of positions affected and expected duration of their service.

Enrollment Instructions:
To expedite the enrollment of personnel who fall under category one and two of this memo, Bureau HROs may now accept the SF 2809 enrollment form from active employees or from a proxy under 5 CFR 890.301. The eligible temporary employee may select the FEHB effective date of enrollment as July 17, 2012 or the beginning of the next pay period after the employee submits the enrollment form.

Employees must currently be in an active enrollment status at the time they elect coverage. Employees who were in an active enrollment status on July 17, 2012, who have not submitted an application to enroll and have now terminated their employment are not eligible for belated enrollment. However, Bureau HROs should review any exceptions on a case-by-case basis to ensure firefighters were offered the opportunity to enroll this year. Employees are responsible for the employee share of FEHB premiums beginning on the effective date of their enrollment.
Employees placed on a leave without pay status have the option of continuing their FEHB plan as long as they pay their share of the premiums directly to their servicing personnel. Employees in a leave without pay status also have the incurring a debt to the government to be repaid upon your return to work. Employees placed in a leave without pay status have the option to terminate the employment.

When an employee’s employment ends, the employee has a 31-day extension of coverage under the FEHB plan the employee selected. During that period, an employee may contact the health plan and convert to an individual contract with the health plan or enroll in Temporary Continuation of Coverage for up to eighteen months following the end of employment.

If there are any additional questions concerning health benefits for temporary fire fighters, please contact Joy Buhler at joy_buhler@ios.doi.gov.
