Description

Home of Franklin D. Roosevelt National Historic Site, on the east bank of the Hudson River in Dutchess County, New York, is the birthplace and lifelong home of the 32nd president of the United States. The Hyde Park estate of Franklin Delano Roosevelt (FDR) served as a wellspring for the ideals that he championed in his political life as well as his family home and public life throughout his career and especially during his presidency. It is the only place where a U.S. president maintained lifelong connections, from birth through his career to his final resting place.

Home of Franklin D. Roosevelt National Historic Site comprises almost 772 acres of the former 1,522-acre historic Roosevelt Family Estate that stretched from the Hudson River east to Cream Street in Hyde Park and includes gardens, grounds, orchards, woodlands, and former agricultural lands.

The FDR home, called Springwood, is the centerpiece of the estate. The park also includes Top Cottage, conceived and built by FDR as a personal retreat. It reflects his architectural sensibility, regional connections, and physical needs. The site's magnificent view overlooking the Hudson River to the mountains beyond inspired the president's deepest feelings. FDR chose the family Rose Garden as his final resting place, where he and his wife Eleanor lie buried in a gravesite of his design.

The Franklin D. Roosevelt Library and Museum, established in 1938 by Congress as the nation's first presidential library, is managed by the National Archives and Records Administration. Home of Franklin D. Roosevelt National Historic Site and the Franklin D. Roosevelt Library and Museum work together closely, sharing the visitor center and presenting a comprehensive depiction of the Roosevelts.
