LIGHTS AND SHADOWS IN THE CANYON

1,008 square miles, is 56 miles long, and contains 105 miles of the winding Colorado River.

THE CANYON

The Canyon is 217 miles long, measured by the river's course, and from 4 to 18 miles in width, all within the State of Arizona. It is 10 miles wide at Yavapai Station. The bottom of the Canyon below Yavapai Point is 2,500 feet above sea level, about 4,500 feet below the South Rim, and 5,700 feet below the North Rim, making an average depth of about 1 mile.

Six of the seven climatic belts recognized throughout America are represented in the Grand Canyon region. They vary from that of desert Mexico at the Canyon bottom to the Arctic-Alpine type on the nearby San Francisco Peaks.

GEOLOGY OF THE CANYON

The Grand Canyon is the result of stream cutting, made possible by the combination of a semiarid climate and the high surface elevation (7,000 to 9,000 feet) of the plateau.

THE Grand Canyon National Park contains one of the world's greatest natural wonders—the Canyon for which it is named. This superb work of nature first impresses the visitor by its immensity. The vast distances from the rims down to the surging Colorado River, looking like a narrow ribbon at the bottom of the gorge, are almost bewildering.

As one views the Grand Canyon, its gorgeous, almost unbelievable coloring, made up of all hues of the rainbow, is constantly changing. When the colors shift and the shadows shorten and lengthen, the shapes of the towers, buttes, and pinnacles rising from the Canyon floor seem to change and some of the formations disappear entirely.

To be appreciated fully, the Grand Canyon should be seen from both top and bottom, as well as in relation to the absorbing region which surrounds it. Only in this way can one fully appreciate this vast wonderland.

Grand Canyon National Park was established by act of Congress, approved February 26, 1919. It has an area of Exposed in the gorge is one of the most complete sections of rocks known. They range from Archean age (the oldest known) to Permian. The old rocks of the basement complex, tilted formations, breaks in the record which show the lapse of millions of years, molten rock solidified into granite, and faults are all represented in the canyon section of the broad arch of the plateau.

THE COLORADO RIVER

The Colorado, which empties into the Gulf of California in Mexico, is the second longest river in the United States, about 2,000 miles long, and it cuts 19 major canyons along its course. At the gauging station at Grand Canyon the river averages about 300 feet in width, varies from 12 to 45 feet in depth, and flows at a speed of 2½ to 10 miles an hour. It carries past any given point an average of nearly 1 million tons of sand and silt every 24 hours.

Boulder Dam is 260 miles downstream from the Kaibab Suspension Bridge. It does not affect the Grand Canyon's section of the river, as the water backs up in Lake Mead only to within 60 miles of the park.

ANIMAL AND PLANT LIFE

Animal life in the park includes about 180 species of birds, 60 species of mammals, 25 reptiles, and 5 amphibians. During the growing season both rims and the Canyon slopes are covered with a great variety of wild flowers.

INDIANS

About 500 ruins of ancient Indian pueblos have been discovered in the Canyon and on the rims. Cliff dwellings made by these Indians are found along the lower walls of the Canyon in many places, especially noteworthy ones being at Clear Creek.

Four Indian tribes live in the Grand Canyon region today. The Navajo, a pastoral people numbering about 48,000, live in the largest Indian reservation in the United States, just east of Grand Canyon. The Hopi, a pueblo farming people numbering about 2,500, live on three mesas north of the Painted Desert. The Paiutes are found to the north. The Havasupai, an agricultural people, numbering about 200, live within the park boundaries in Havasu Canyon, west of Grand Canyon Village.

THE VIEWS FROM THE RIMS

The Grand Canyon should be seen first from the many spectacular observation points on its two rims. Excellent motor roads, footpaths, and bridle paths present view after view of the Canyon's varied and ever-changing panorama.

The drive along the South Rim covers nearly 35 miles of well-paved roads. It passes at times through interesting pine forests, only to emerge at short intervals upon startling views of the Canyon. Westward from El Tovar Hotel, the drive includes Powell, Hopi, Mohave, and Pima Points, each offering its own superb view, and finally Hermit Rest. This unique resthouse, built of Canyon boulders, is an attraction in itself.

Eastward, the route is over the East Rim Drive through the forest and along the Canyon's rim. Stops are made at Yavapai Observation Station and at Yaki, Grandview, Moran, and Lipan Points. At the end of the drive is the Desert View Observation Tower. Built of native stones on the brink of the Canyon, the tower commands one of the most breath-taking of Grand Canyon views and a startling panorama of the Painted Desert.

On the North Rim a paved highway extends from Grand Canyon Lodge eastward to Point Imperial, Farview, Vista Encantada, and Cape Royal. The highway, winding through a magnificent forest, emerges at the various observation points for striking views of the Canyon and the Painted Desert. Another interesting trip, and one of the most beautiful in the park, is the woodland drive to Point Sublime.

EXPLORING THE INNER TRAILS

Exploring the Grand Canyon by descending the trails to its innermost fastnesses is a memorable experience. The descent is usually made on muleback in parties led by experienced guides.

Hikers should make inquiry at the park office before attempting the Canyon trips. The trip to the Colorado River and return is very strenuous and one's strength should not be overestimated. Food and water should be carried.

There are two splendid trails from the South Rim to the Colorado River, in the bottom of the Canyon. The one most frequently used is the famous Bright Angel Trail. Every turn in this well-built trail opens up new vistas, each seemingly more spectacular than the one before. About half-way down, a brief stop is made at Indian Gardens, after which the trail stretches out upon the Tonto Plateau and presently heads downward through Granite Gorge to the rocky banks of the turbulent Colorado. After a stop for luncheon, the return journey is made in easy stages, arriving on the rim in late afternoon.

Even more spectacular, from a scenic standpoint, is the trip over the Kaibab Trail. Starting from the South Rim at Yaki Point, the downward journey unfolds an ever-changing panorama until the Tip-Off is reached, from which point the trip continues into the inner canyon and across the 440-foot Colorado River suspension bridge to Phantom Ranch for dinner and an overnight stop. The return journey is made over the Kaibab or Bright Angel Trails, reaching the South Rim late in the afternoon of the second day.

From the North Rim, the cross-canyon Kaibab Trail starts down into the Canyon from Bright Angel Point, descending into Roaring Springs Canyon through quaking aspen, fir, pine, and oak brush to the Redwall limestone section. At the mouth of Manzanita Creek, the trail enters Bright Angel Canyon. From this section may be seen one of the most beautiful sights on the entire trip—the spectacular springs which gush forth with a roaring sound from beneath the Redwall limestone, cascading down an oak-covered mountainside to the gorge 40 feet below. Farther down the picturesque Box Canyon of the Bright Angel Creek, and 5 miles above Phantom Ranch, is Ribbon Falls.

The trip from the North Rim to Phantom Ranch and back, with an overnight stop at the Ranch, takes 2 days, as does the trip from rim to rim either way. A popular 1-day trip is that from the North Rim to Roaring Springs and return.

ADMINISTRATION, SERVICES, AND ACCOMMODATIONS

Park Headquarters.—Grand Canyon National Park is under the administration of the National Park Service, United States Department of the Interior, Washington, D. C. The park is in immediate charge of the superintendent, with headquarters on the South Rim at Grand Canyon Village. Visitors are welcomed at park headquarters and are invited to use the information bureau and reference library.

Ranger Service and Educational Facilities.—In addition to regular nature-guide hikes, motor caravans, and campfire lectures by park rangers on both rims, the National Park Service maintains a free observation station and trail-side museum at Yavapai Point on the South Rim. Here are given, during the summer season, informal lectures on the origin, history, and plant life of the Grand Canyon region. The Wayside Museum and excavated ruin on the East Rim Drive explain the archeology of the region.

Living Expenses.—The cost of a Grand Canyon outing depends on the visitor's taste and the size of his vacation budget, for the Grand Canyon offers a complete range in living accommodations—free public camp; inexpensive housekeeping cabins; low, moderate, and higher-priced accommodations in camps, lodges, and hotels. Rates for these accommodations and all other services in the park are regulated by the National Park Service. The Arizona State sales tax is applicable to all purchases.

SOUTH RIM

(OPEN ALL THE YEAR)

Hotels, lodges, camps, and transportation services are under the management of Fred Harvey.

El Tovar Hotel.—Situated on the very brink of the chasm, El Tovar is one of the most famous resort hotels in the Southwest. It is built of native boulders and pine logs, with more than 80 guest rooms. Rates range from $2.50 per day, European plan, for one person in a room without bath, to $11.50 and up per day, American plan, for two persons in a room with bath. Meals are: Breakfast, $1; luncheon, $1; dinner, $1.50. For children from 3 to 7 years of age, the rates are half; a discount of 10 percent is allowed to guests remaining 7 days or more.

Bright Angel Lodge and Cabins.—Modern, comfortable, and attractive accommodations, at a wide price range, are provided in the Bright Angel Lodge, situated on the Canyon's rim near the head of Bright Angel Trail. Lounge and entertainment facilities, as well as various shops and services, are available in the main lodge, and a large coffee shop provides regular meals and a la carte service. In addition to the Bucky O'Neil 17-room lodge and the Powell 25-room lodge, there are comfortable and attractive cabins. Rates are from $1.50 per day for a single room without bath to $4.50 and up per day for two in a room with bath, European plan. Half rates are given for children from 3 to 7 years of age; guests staying 7 days or longer are allowed a discount of 10 percent. Plate breakfasts are 40 cents up; lunches, 50 cents up; and dinners, 75 cents up.

Auto-camp Cabins.—In Grand Canyon Village there is a motor camp consisting of a camp lodge, with grocery, soda fountain, and other facilities, and a large number of furnished housekeeping cabins. Rates range from $1.25 to $4.75 per day, with a discount of 10 percent for those remaining 4 days or longer. These rates include fuel, water, and electric lights, but not bedding and linen, which may be rented at the camp lodge. Public bath, toilet, and laundry facilities are available. Reasonably priced plate meals may be obtained at the auto-camp lodge.

Phantom Ranch.—Picturesquely located at the bottom of the Canyon, Phantom Ranch consists of a group of rustic cabins surrounding a central lodge, providing modern conveniences for a brief or extended stay in the depths of the chasm. Phantom Ranch is operated on the American plan, $6 per person per day. Reservations should be made at Bright Angel Lodge or El Tovar Hotel before leaving the rim.

Public Campgrounds.—These are maintained by the National Park Service in Grand Canyon Village and at Desert View. Motorists bringing their own equipment may make free use of these grounds, which are equipped with cooking fireplaces, tables, benches, water, and sanitary facilities. As water is obtained with difficulty in this region, visitors are requested to conserve it.

MOTOR, SADDLE, AND AIRPLANE TRIPS

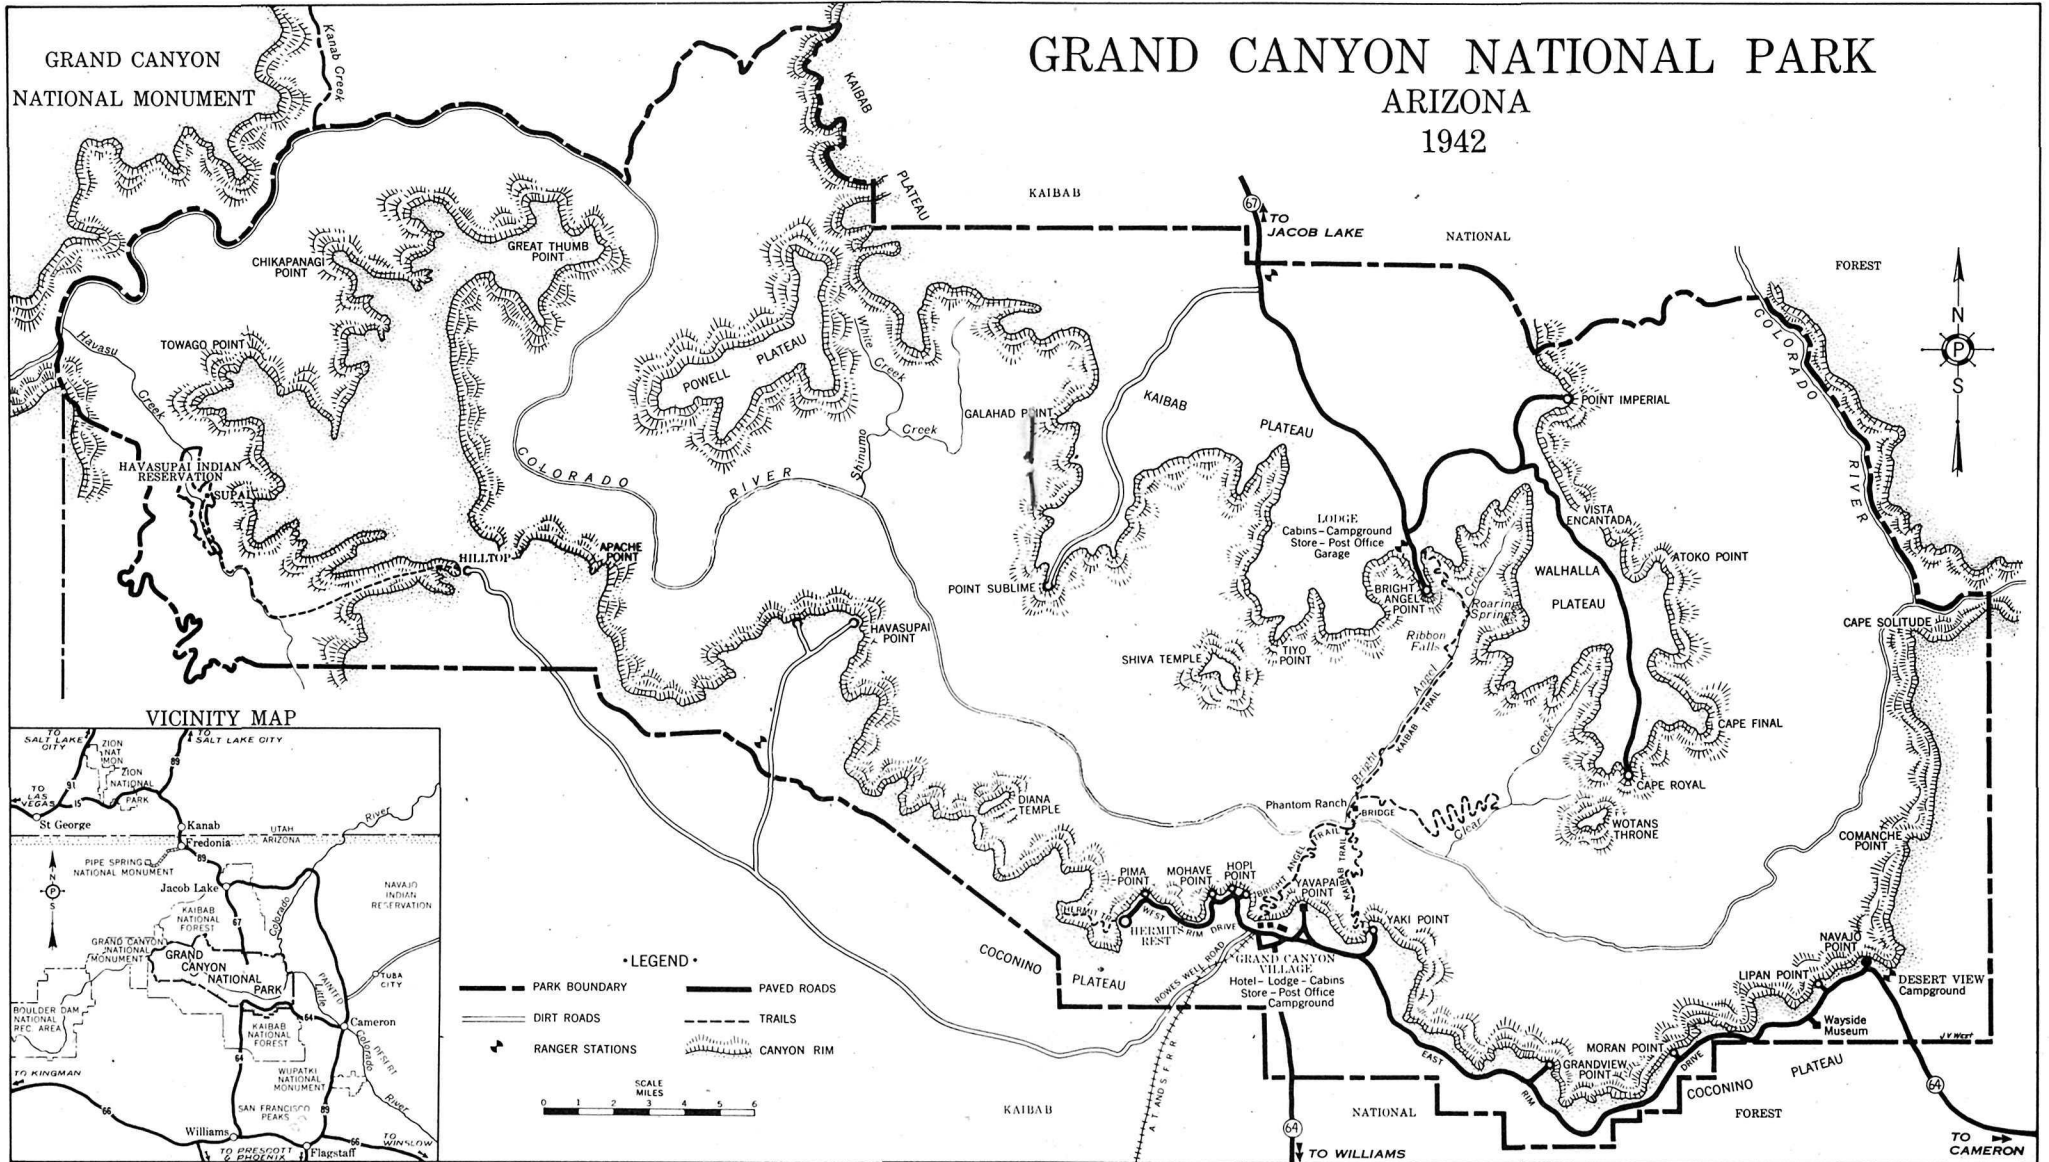

Motor Tours.—There are certain trips that every Grand Canyon visitor should make if he has the time. The Grand Canyon Rim drives to Hermit Rest, 8 miles to the west, and Desert View, 25 miles to the east, which are especially popular, are $3 and $6, respectively. These may be taken singly, or the combination trip is $7. Another popular tour is to the well-known, but little seen, Navajo and Hopi Indian Reservations, east of the park by way of the suspension bridge over the Little Colorado River and through the Painted Desert.

Trail Trips.—There are very few days of the year when one cannot make the Bright Angel Trail trip on muleback, a distance of 7.8 miles, from the South Rim to the Colorado River. The cost of this trip, including lunch, is $6. Another spectacular trail trip is the one to Phantom Ranch via the Kaibab Trail. A 3-day outing, spending 2 nights at Phantom Ranch and visiting Ribbon Falls and Roaring Springs, is scheduled. In 2 days the visitor may cross the Grand Canyon from one rim to the other, spending a night at Phantom Ranch. These trips range in price from $5 to $30.

Pack Trips.—There are many opportunities for interesting pack trips into the Canyon and surrounding country for which special arrangements may be made.

Saddle Horses.—A popular 1-day horseback outing is to Dripping Springs, which is reached via the West Rim Drive and Hermit Basin. The return trip is made through the forest. The rate, including lunch, is $6. Horses may be rented for $1.50 for 2 hours on regularly scheduled trips accompanied by a guide; half day, $3, full day $5.

For other than the scheduled trips, a special guide is required, as horses are not rented unless accompanied by a guide. Special guide rate, $3 half day, $5 full day.

Emergency Trail Service.—Visitors who walk down the Canyon trails from either the South or North Rim may have saddle mules sent to meet them. The charge for such service is necessarily greater than the regular scheduled muleback trips into the Canyon, since it involves special guide service.

Airplane Trips.—The Grand Canyon Airlines operates daily scenic flights, weather permitting, over Grand Canyon and to various points of interest in the vicinity of the park during the summer months. Tickets for the scenic flights over the Canyon may be secured at the hotels or lodges on either rim, where arrangements also may be made for special trips by air.

The North Rim includes a part of one of America's most beautiful forests, the Kaibab, with dense virgin stands of pine, fir, spruce, and quaking aspen. Wildlife abounds and adds much to the interest of the area.

Because of the heavy winter snows, hotel accommodations on the North Rim are available only from May 30 to September 25. RULES AND REGULATIONS

[Briefed]

THE FOLLOWING SUMMARY of rules is intended as a guide for all park visitors. You are respectfully requested to facilitate the best in park administration by carefully observing the regulations. Complete regulations may be seen at the office of the superintendent.

Preservation of Natural Features.—The first law of a national park is preservation. Disturbance, injury, or destruction in any way of natural features, including trees, flowers, and other vegetation, rocks, and all wildlife, is strictly prohibited. Penalties are imposed for removing fossils and Indian remains, such as arrowheads, etc.

Camps.—Camp or lunch only in designated areas. All rubbish that will burn should be disposed of in campfires. Garbage cans are provided for non-flammable refuse. Wood and water are provided in all designated campgrounds.

Fires.—Fires are absolutely prohibited except in designated spots. Do not go out of sight of your camp, even for a few minutes, without making sure that your fire is either out entirely or being watched.

Dogs and Cats.—These domestic animals are prohibited on Government lands within the park unless on leash, crated, or otherwise under physical restrictive control at all times. Such animals may be excluded from designated areas.

Automobiles.—Park drives are wide and smoothly surfaced. It should always be remembered that each driver's own carefulness and responsibility to others are the greatest safety factors involved. Automobile permit fee, $1; house trailer fee, $1; motorcycle fee, $1.

Extreme Caution should be taken while driving along the park roads. Squirrels are tame and their existence is imperiled by fast driving. Many deer range the forest and sometimes the highways, and care should be taken not to hit them.

Trail Travel.—Hikers and riders shall not make short cuts, but shall confine themselves to the trails at all times. Saddle animals have the right-of-way over pedestrians. The latter will take the outer side of the trail whenever possible and shall stand quietly until animals have passed.

Hunting.—Hunting within park boundaries is prohibited. No firearms are allowed except as provided for through permission of superintendent, secured from park rangers at entrances.

Fishing.—From June 1 to September 30, inclusive, fishing is allowed in certain park streams. A State of Arizona license is required.

Park Rangers.—Park rangers are public servants. They are here to answer your questions and otherwise help you in every possible way. Help them to serve you better by observing these regulations.

Carelessness Breeds Destruction — Take No Chances.
