This list is based on records on file at Lake Meredith Recreation Area and includes observations from the recreation area and lands immediately adjacent in Moore, Hutchinson, and Potter Counties, Texas.

Lake Meredith Recreation Area's 45,000 acres of land and water is administered by the National Park Service. The lake, formed by damming the Canadian River, is located in the geographical center of the Texas Panhandle. This area of high plains, rolling hills, canyons, flood plains, and water provides interesting habitats for bird finding.

Combined species: Juncos, orioles, flickers, warblers, have been counted only once but are listed separately.
