

Martin Luther King, Jr.
National Historic Site

Family Values

Martin Luther King, Jr. was raised in a close-knit and supportive multigenerational family. From them, he learned the strong family values of service, respect, education, and intolerance towards racial discrimination. He is pictured in this family photo (bottom right) at age ten, with his mother, father, grandmother, brother, and sister.

To learn more, visit: www.nps.gov/malu

NATIONAL PARK SERVICE