

Manzanar National Historic Site

Toyo Miyatake

1895-1979

Before World War II, Toyo was a famous photographer. He became even more famous after he made a secret camera at Manzanar to document what happened there, saying, "My responsibility is to record camp life so that this...will never happen again." This was very risky, but he felt it was his "historic responsibility."

To learn more, visit: www.nps.gov/manz

NATIONAL PARK SERVICE