

Privy - Custer State Park - South Dakota
 Employed in a lowly privy, here are quality and scale in log work that might well serve as models for more ambitious structures in parks. The shake roof, blunted log ends and casual foundation wall contribute to the highly pleasing to the eye effect. There is an apparent lack of adequate provision for light and ventilation.