

On thin bark trees make neat box like blaze, not a long ragged one resulting from a careless swipe of an axe. See to it that axe-men do not exceed dimensions given. Do not waste time making square corners. A stroke up, a stroke down, and the removal of the bark between, in the easiest possible manner, is the correct practice.

