OF RIVERS OF STEEL NATIONAL HERITAGE AREA

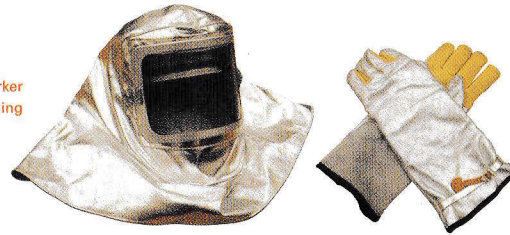

FROM THE CLOSE OF THE CIVIL WAR through two World Wars and a long stretch of mid-20th century prosperity, America focused its industrial capital and might like never before, transforming itself into a global economic superpower. No region defined or embodied this second Industrial Age and the nation's shift from rural isolation to world leadership more dramatically than southwestern Pennsylvania. The land and people found at the confluence of the Monongahela, Allegheny, and Ohio River "teeming with natural resources and a tenacious human spirit" became the pounding heart of industrial America. A massive concentration of oil, glass, iron, aluminum, electrical, mechanical, mining, railroads and steel industries thrived, produced unfathomable wealth and hammered the modern world into shape.

Rivers of Steel National Heritage Area's mission is to preserve, interpret and promote the resources of the Age of Big Steel. Its goal is to ensure that the region's remarkable industrial history and the living legacy of the people of southwestern Pennsylvania endure for generations to come.

Your annual membership supports Rivers of Steel's mission and enables Rivers of Steel to restore heritage sites, develop interpretive and educational programming, support cultural conservation, and construct trails and river landings.

Your membership makes you a partner in the stewardship of this region's remarkable industrial and cultural heritage!
