JOSHUA TREE NATIONAL PARK

TWENTYNINE PALMS,
CALIFORNIA

Bound on the east by the lower Colorado Desert and the higher Mohave Desert on the west, the Joshua Tree National Park is one of California's most mesmerizing desert landscapes. Hiking, picnicking, wildlife watching and camping are the popular pastimes of this region situated just 140 miles east of Los Angeles.

Campgrounds are available year-round and guided tours are presented in spring and fall. For backcountry hiking, inquire at the monument visitor center about self-registration. Food and supplies may be obtained in Twentynine Palms, Joshua Tree and Yucca Valley.

SPECIAL INFORMATION

Vehicles must stay on established roadways. First aid facilities are available within the park. • Superintendent, Joshua Tree National Park, 74485 National Park Drive, Twentynine Palms, CA 92277 (619) 367-7511.
