

Fredericksburg National Military Park

Chatham Gardens

Chatham Gardens Fredericksburg, Virginia

Chatham, located opposite Fredericksburg, Virginia, symbolizes the Southern experience. Built on a foundation of slavery, the plantation rose to affluence in the early years of the Republic, fell into ruin during the Civil War, and was restored in the 20th century. The gardens reflect its transformation from a functioning plantation to an affluent suburban home.