

MUSTER GROUNDS - AT - ABINGDON

- OVERMOUNTAIN VICTORY NATIONAL HISTORIC TRAIL -

1780 Muster Place • Abingdon, Virginia • (276) 525-1050

Hours of Operation:

Keller Interpretive Center
open 9:00 a.m. - 5:00 p.m. daily.

(Closed most federal holidays.)

Grounds and Trail opened year-round, dawn to dusk.

For additional information and inquiries, please contact the Visitor Center at Abingdon's Muster Grounds.

GPS Coordinates:

N 36° 42' 14" / 31.70393

W 81° 59' 14" / 81.99457

Parking at the corner of Holston Street and Colonial Road.

 Find us on Facebook • Geocaching Friendly

Town of Abingdon • www.abingdon.com • www.nps.gov/ovvi

MUSTER GROUNDS - AT - ABINGDON

- OVERMOUNTAIN VICTORY NATIONAL HISTORIC TRAIL -

In the summer of 1780, the Southern American colonies - and hopes of independence - seemed at the mercy of an invading British army. A militia was formed on the western frontier, today known as the Overmountain Men. This brave group of some 400 volunteers came to the Abingdon Muster Grounds to begin their journey. Joined by other militia, 1,000 Overmountain men gave chase to British Major Patrick Ferguson, surrounding his army on Kings Mountain, SC.

In little over an hour, they killed or captured his entire command. Kings Mountain was the beginning of the successful end to the Revolution, assuring independence for the United States of America.

The Muster Grounds is the northern trailhead of the 330-mile long Overmountain Victory National Historic Trail.

The Keller Interpretive Center is located within the 9-acre Muster Grounds, and is the premier center for Colonial Backcountry history from the American Revolutionary Period in Southwest Virginia. Exhibits help visitors discover what life was like for the Overmountain Men, Backcountry Women, African-Americans and Native Americans, as well as British Loyalists, and a history of Washington County -- the Overmountain region of Southwest Virginia. Artifacts used at the Battle of Kings Mountain and others from the late 18th-century Overmountain region are on display. The Eastern National sales area provides something special and unique - for all ages - to take home to remember their experience at the Muster Grounds.

